

Vancouver South: Socreds Upset

NDP Captures Byelection Seat

Winner Levi

By IAN STREET

The upset victory by New Democrat Norman Levi in Tuesday's Vancouver South byelection sets the stage for what Premier Bennett has called a "long, hot summer" on the hustings with three more fierce provincial contests—one in Oak Bay—to be fought in July.

This leaves Social Credit with 32 seats in the 55-member legislature, the NDP has 16 and the Liberals four. There are three vacancies to be filled, one previously held by the NDP and two by Liberals.

Premier Bennett accepted the defeat of Socred George Wainborn in the key Lower Mainland riding philosophically, saying "Well, you can't win them all," but he termed the setback for the government just a temporary one.

He predicted when all four B.C. byelections are over the government will have won back the seat it lost Tuesday night, and perhaps also picked up one or two of the other seats, now held by the opposition.

Mr. Levi led the field in Vancouver South from the start and won by a comfortable margin over Mr. Wainborn, with Liberal Sandy Robertson a fairly close third.

The vote on the first complete count was Mr. Levi, NDP, 10,146; Mr. Wainborn, Social Credit, 8,215; Mr. Robertson, Liberal, 7,283; and Republican Leonard Sprackman, 48.

NDP provincial leader Robert Strachan, elated by his party's victory, said the voters of Vancouver South were speaking for the whole province where large numbers of people are "disillusioned and dissatisfied with this crumbling government."

"The premier told an election rally here last week his government is fighting for its life," the NDP leader said. "He (Mr. Bennett) made it quite clear this was a vote of confidence in his government and the people of Vancouver South have told him they are unhappy and unsatisfied with the way things are going."

Mr. Strachan said the issues in the byelection, which he listed as better education, health, housing, pollution control and economic development, apply as well throughout the province.

"They claim we can only put on this type of intensive person-to-person campaign in a byelection," he said. "But we know that in a general election, because of widespread public disillusionment, we can beat the old line Socred political machine with its funds extorted from business."

Mr. Bennett retorted: "One

sparrow doesn't make a summer. He (Mr. Strachan) will revise his estimate before this long, hot summer is over."

The premier added: "But I don't take anything away from Mr. Levi. I congratulate him in what was a personal victory for him rather than a victory for his party."

The Socred and Liberal candidates, Mr. Bennett said, split the free enterprise vote,

France

Censure Drive Failing

PARIS (CP) — France choked in the grip of ever-spreading strikes Tuesday night but leftist deputies opposed to President Charles de Gaulle appeared unable to transform the social ferment into a censure vote that would bring down the government.

Debate on a censure motion began Tuesday with a determined Communist attack on de Gaulle's 10-year "regime of personal power," but quickly bogged down in side issues. Crowds of spectators deserted the galleries.

Even some opposition leaders conceded that the censure motion has little chance of getting more than 230 votes when debate ends late today or early Thursday. A total of 244 votes are needed to oust Premier Georges Pompidou and his cabinet, who carry de Gaulle's policies.

NO STOMACH

It seemed clear that at least some of the 42 centrist deputies of the Democratic and Modern Progress group had no stomach for voting with the Communists.

"We are in favor of change but not an adventure into the unknown," said Jacques Duhamel, the centrist leader.

The polite and often theatrical exchanges in the National Assembly bore scant relation at times to the extremities facing the nation. With major industries and vital public services paralyzed by strikes that have idled nearly half its 16,000,000 workers, France was experiencing its gravest domestic crisis since the Second World War.

FRANCE SICK

The independent newspaper Le Monde says in an editorial that France had again become "the sick man of Europe."

Few doubted that the crisis was a serious setback for de Gaulle's foreign, internal and economic policies.

With unemployment at 2.5 per cent of the labor force even before the strikes and the fifth national plan already slightly behind schedule, some economists said the government's economic policies will need rethinking.

Satisfaction of any substantial part of the demands of the strikers — for higher pay and

Admiral Appointed To B.C. London Post

Rear Admiral Michael Stirling, who retired from the Navy in 1964 because he didn't agree with the unification of Canada's armed forces, will become B.C.'s agent-general in London this fall.

He will take over the $17,500-a-year post Oct. 1 from Earle C. Westwood, former mayor of Nanaimo and B.C. cabinet minister, who is retiring after four years in the U.K.

The announcement was made by Premier Bennett Tuesday afternoon, but he told reporters before entering a cabinet meeting that it was a joint announcement by himself and Trade Minister Waldo Skilling, who was at his side.

STRENUOUS LIFE

Mr. Westwood would be "sorely missed" in London, the premier said, adding, however, that he was pleased that the present agent-general would "now be able to live a less strenuous life after many years of arduous public service."

Mr. Westwood is 53 and his successor, Mr. Stirling, will be 53 next month.

The premier said Mr. Westwood's four-year term as agent-general was successfully devoted to expansion of B.C.'s commercial interests in Britain and Europe. He was made a Freeman of the City of London in 1967.

'I AM GRATEFUL'

Mr. Bennett said: "His enthusiasm, integrity and abiding interest in both the welfare of his community and the province have been of great value. I am grateful for what he has done, both personally and on behalf of the people of B.C."

The government came under strong opposition fire during the last session when it boosted the salary for the London post from $13,100 to $17,500 plus expenses. A similar boost affects the San Francisco trade commissioner's job, currently held by Newton P. Steacy, another defeated Socred minister.

Mr. Bennett told the House the salary increases were needed to keep up with the cost of living abroad.

Mr. Westwood was elected Socred MLA for Nanaimo after serving on the city's hospital board, school board and the

Haiti Claims:

Invasion Force Crushed

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — The government of President Francois Duvalier claimed Tuesday night it had smashed a rebel invasion force in a fierce 20-minute battle near the Cap-Haitien airport on the north coast of Haiti.

Government sources said 10 of 35 invaders were killed Tuesday and the survivors fled into nearby hills ahead of pursuing government troops.

The government announced plans to fly two captured B-25 bombers to Port au Prince today. Sources said Duvalier probably would inspect them personally.

The planes were said to have landed the invasion party at Cap-Haitien Monday following a bombing attack on the capital in which one person was reported killed and several injured.

A local newspaper said Duvalier was in bed reading when bombs fell near the palace Monday.

'Confidence in Canada'

Stanfield Lists Six-Point Plan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield Tuesday night put forward a six-point program to restore confidence in basic commodities and economic strength to Canada as he officially opened his campaign here.

He told the 4,500 people crowding the civic auditorium here a government led by him would:

- Restore confidence in such basic industries as agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining and manufacturing so that new growth could take place.

- Gain increased markets for Canadian grain, paper, fish and manufactured markets.

- Strengthen regional and national economies through better marketing, storage, distribution and transportation facilities.

- Give particular attention to new technologies in developing communication systems such as hovercraft routes and commodity pipelines.

- Develop a national power grid so that large blocks of surplus power could be transferred from one region to another or to the United States.

CONFIDENCE KEY

"Then, what are we waiting for? Let us justify their confidence in Canada."

"Let confidence in Canada be the purpose of our campaign, and the spirit of our campaign, and the result of our campaign," he said.

SHOW-STEALER

But the show-stealer here was Marcel Faribault, self-described Conservative leader in Quebec. Faribault, former adviser to Premier Johnson of Quebec, was greeted by some hostility in the crowd of 4,500 which filled the auditorium. But he overrode it and had many cheering him.

Douglas Pledges

National Control Over Pollution

SUDBURY (CP) — A New Democratic Party government would set up a national pollution control agency involving all levels of government, NDP leader T. C. Douglas said Tuesday night. The agency, along with provincial counterparts, would have power to police all aspects of pollution, set standards for control and, if necessary, provide grants. An NDP government would seek concurrent legislation from the provinces for the joint approach.

Douglas outlined his party's program on pollution at a joint rally of the Sudbury and Nickel Belt riding associations.

The NDP leader said about 4,000 square miles in the Sudbury area are polluted by sulphur dioxide caused by operations of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. About 200 square miles are in danger of becoming a desert.

Yet the "fouling continues unabated and the governments do virtually nothing." The responsibility for control of pollution rests with the federal government, Douglas said. Provinces share in the constitutional jurisdiction, "but sheer necessity dictates

School Strike Ends

By JEAN MacGREGOR

DUNCAN — Striking clerks won their week-old battle Tuesday when Cowichan school board surrendered to their demands and accepted a conciliation board pay award. All schools will reopen today.

Board chairman Joseph Frumetto said trustee Bruce Devitt, salary committee chairman, asked the union to accept a compromise but the union representatives "insisted on the conciliation board award."

The strike by 28 board-employed office workers ended when a joint agreement was signed at a special meeting by the trustees' salary committee and representatives of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The agreement was ratified by the board later. The clerks will receive a 13.5 per cent wage increase.

Another joint meeting will be held today when a collective agreement will be signed.

Art Jones, superintendent of schools, said normal bus service

'Two Peoples One Country'

The Progressive-Conservative party stands for "one country, one Canada with a federal system of government, one country of 'two founding peoples,' who have been joined by Canadians of other cultures," leader Robert Stanfield said Tuesday.

He was replying to a telegram sent last week by Colonel publisher Richard J. Bower which said it is "imperative you clarify stand on two-nation policy and explain what special status for Quebec would entail."

municipal council. The last five years of his career in local government were spent as mayor.

After serving in the cabinet as minister of trade and industry for two years, he became minister of recreation and conservation and in 1960 was given the additional portfolio of commercial transport.

Mr. Westwood was defeated in 1963, and the following year became agent-general following the retirement of Dr. J. V. Fisher.

Admiral Stirling was born at Kelowna June 23, 1915. He is the son of Grote Stirling, former member of Parliament for Yale and minister of national defence and fisheries in the Conservative government of R. B. Bennett in 1934-35.

After attending Kelowna schools and Shawinigan Lake School he joined the navy as a cadet in 1933. He was married in 1942 and has three grown children.

After becoming rear admiral in 1962 he was appointed Flag

Officer Pacific Coast and Maritime Commander Pacific two years later. His official biography says: "In July, 1966, resigned from RCN because of a disagreement with government policy of unification and was superseded Aug. 1, 1966." Since 1967, Admiral Stirling has been a director of the University of Victoria Foundation. In a note attached to his biography, headed "personal data," he says his health is "excellent — fit for any employment by naval standards. He lists his hobbies as golf and sailing."

Stanfield Offers Six Points

He said the issue in the June 25 election campaign is simple — "steadfast Stanfield or turnabout Trudeau."

BOOS, APPLAUSE

Prime Minister Trudeau had changed from socialism to liberalism, he said. Quebec would not swallow Trudeau liberalism.

There were a few boos when Faribault was introduced. But they changed to applause when he said: "There is not one square inch of this land I shall ever renounce."

Faribault said he was in Winnipeg as a Canadian, Quebecer and lifelong Conservative.

MANY CULTURES

There was no one he would not fight who sought to tear Canada apart.

He stood for one country under a federal system of government, two languages officially recognized, and many cultures, each fostered, encouraged and cherished.

The preliminaries took so long that Stanfield did not get the floor until 9:30 p.m. and a few persons in the audience walked out while he was speaking.

TRANSITION

Stanfield said: "Let this great meeting mark the transition of our time."

"We will go from here to form a government that will be worthy of this country." A Liberal government "careless about our economy" stands between Canada and its minimum goals—the defeat of poverty, the growth of opportunity, the development of regions, the provision of education, housing and the control of air and water pollution, Stanfield said.

"This is what holds us back—the refusal of the Liberal government to deal effectively with temporary problems until they become chronic.

CLIMATE OF CRISIS

"They court a climate of crisis and are then unable to act on long-term policy because there is no time to plan, no room to move."

"The fact is that the government now in Ottawa has shown no interest in managing the economy so that we will have sound and sustained economic growth. And it is showing none now. They are proceeding as if no problem exists."

SLIGHT CONCERN

"The prime minister has weakened the economic portfolios in his cabinet in a way that shows slight concern for economic matters."

"We are locked into a lagging rate of growth, an unacceptably high cost of living, a heavy rate of taxation, interest rates that hold back growth and the human and economic waste of

Nervous Impulse Causes Heart Muscle Contraction

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: The question arose around our dinner table, "What causes a human heart to pump?"

The first answer was "impulses," but we were dissatisfied. What is the nature of the impulse? Is it electrical? And if so, does it conform to the widely accepted electron theory of electricity? —M.M.

Basically, your question doesn't differ much from asking, "What keeps you breathing when you are asleep?" Or even, "If you wiggle your finger, what makes it wiggle?"

In either case, nerve impulses from the brain travel along nerves and cause certain muscles to contract — it is the brain giving the orders, whether consciously or not.

What makes the brain operate? What strange power regulates thought? These are mysteries yet to be solved.

But as to the heart, we know that a nervous impulse causes the heart muscle to contract.

Your Good Health and the contraction of the muscle squeezes blood through a series of chambers equipped with one-way valves, so the blood has to flow in the right direction only.

To some extent, the course of the nervous impulse has been traced. It is apparent in what is called the A-V node, the tissues at the juncture of the atria, or upper chambers, and the ventricles, or lower chambers of the heart.

Then the impulse passes through the heart tissues — probably along nerve fibres. We know that some kinds of heart damage interfere with transmission of the impulses, slowing down the heart action or the flow of the impulse (heart block).

In cases of severe heart block a faint electric current can be introduced to the heart tissues, and at such pulse of electricity, the heart muscle contracts. This, indeed, is the explanation of the pacemakers which are used to regulate a faulty heart beat.

DRUG FACTOR

This may explain why — as during open heart surgery — introduction of certain drugs into the bloodstream will make the heart stop beating, washing them out lets the heart beat again.

If you want a final puzzle, it has been found that if you remove the heart of a turtle and suspend it in a suitable solution, it will keep on beating for days.

So where, in that case, does the impulse to beat come from? Science has learned a lot, but what an overwhelming amount there is yet to learn!

that the federal government act on the matter."

Pollution crossed national and international boundaries and could only be dealt with effectively on a co-ordinated basis.

"Everybody knows we are poisoning ourselves. Lake Erie is so badly fouled with poisons and effluent that it's becoming a dead body of water, sometimes called the world's largest sewer."

A committee on pollution in the Sudbury area has been virtually ignored, Douglas said. Besides Inco, Douglas also linked Canadian Industries Ltd. with water pollution. On more than one occasion, he said, the company has accidentally allowed tons of sulphuric acid to flow into waterways.

Douglas said an NDP government would introduce legislation requiring motor vehicles to be equipped with devices to reduce harmful exhaust fumes.

It would also require the registering and controlling of pesticides and their use.

Big Vote Today In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Advance polls indicate a heavy voter turnout for today's Block 42-52 election. The three-day advance total was 237. The vote is to determine if a majority of voters favor proposed development of office towers, malls, stores and hotels on the block site at Granville and Georgia in the downtown area.

particularly since they both come from Vancouver parks board. He added: "It just shows the Liberals are only a nuisance in provincial elections because they can't win."

When the next provincial general election rolls around—and the premier noted he had said previously this would not be until 1969, at earliest—voters everywhere would do well to remember this fact, he said.

The premier said the results in Vancouver South could even be regarded as a "great victory". Asked how, he replied: "Our man ran a good second and this has been a lesson to free enterprisers everywhere to get behind the only genuine free enterprise party that can win in this province, Social Credit."

Mr. Levi, a 41-year-old social worker, won election to the legislature on his second bid. He was runner-up to two Socialists in dual-seat riding in 1966 (the death of Tom Bate last fall created the vacancy) and was beaten by Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing in the same territory in the 1965 federal election.

The victorious New Democrat said Tuesday night he will campaign federally in the Lower Mainland then head for the Interior to take part in the Revelstoke-Slocan byelection. His win was the first at the expense of the government in a byelection since the Liberals won in Point Grey in 1962.

Moscow Talks Spur Viet Hope

PARIS — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman expressed hope Tuesday that something will come from a British-Soviet meeting in Moscow on the Vietnam war. Other Americans professed to see a faint prospect of progress in preliminary talks here, and perhaps their enlargement.

Harriman expressed his views after paying what he said was a courtesy call on President de Gaulle. Later, North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, met with de Gaulle.

Both envoys reported cordial interviews with the president.

SUBTLE CHANGE

As the Americans and North Vietnamese prepared for their fourth session at the French International Conference Centre today, a subtle change in the Hanoi delegation's phrasing held American interest.

Instead of saying the two sides could discuss "other matters of common interest" if the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam ended, the Hanoi spokesman spelled out a possible "second stage" for these talks involving political settlement.

A U.S. spokesman quickly pointed out that should a political stage be reached, South Vietnam "would certainly be involved." The United States, he said, is not in a position alone "to reach a political settlement with Hanoi."

BREAK HINTED

He evidently meant any proposal of settlement would be rejected if it meant leaving the Saigon government out in the cold.

Should the "second stage" come to pass, it could mean a break in the logjam and enlargement of the conference.

"HUMANITARIAN"

North Vietnam pledged Tuesday it would give "humanitarian treatment" to captured American pilots. But Hanoi refused to say whether it would free the airmen if the U.S. agreed to halt all bombing of North Vietnam.

Hanoi delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le made the promise in a news conference. In Saigon, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky held a 50-minute meeting Tuesday with Tran Van Huong, South Vietnam's new premier whose cabinet appointees are certain to diminish Ky's power.

MEETING CORDIAL

An aide to Ky said the meeting was "extremely cordial" in an attempt to dispel reports that Ky opposed Huong. The aide said Huong "sought the vice-president's support and the vice-president said he was willing to help in any way he could."

President Nguyen Van Thieu appointed Huong, 64, last Saturday to replace Nguyen Van Loc, 65. Loc was Ky's choice as premier when the constitutional government was formed last October.

Ky was absent at the cabinet meeting Saturday when Thieu accepted Loc's resignation, and this was interpreted by some Saigon observers to mean that Ky disapproved of the change. Sources close to Ky said he had not been informed of the change until "the last minute" and was not invited to the cabinet session.

NOT FRIENDLY

Ky and Thieu have been at odds over many problems facing South Vietnam, and are not close friends. At one time last year Ky considered running against Thieu for the presidency.

In the fighting, North Vietnamese gunners hit four major U.S. headquarters near Hue, South Vietnam, Tuesday. Thousands of U.S. soldiers moving in to meet the threat posed in the far north by three Communist divisions fought a ground attack on one base.

"The intensity of the war seems to be increasing," Gen. William C. Westmoreland, retiring commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said before taking off for a farewell visit to American troops in Thailand.

"TALK, FIGHT"

Reporters asked Westmoreland whether the rising tempo of battle was part of the Communists' "talk and fight" strategy timed to coincide with the U.S.-North Vietnamese negotiations in Paris. He replied that "circumstantial evidence" indicates this.

For the present, the greatest peril appeared to be in the north, where intelligence reports say at least three North Vietnamese divisions are operating.

Tuesday's attacks came about midway between Da Nang and the zone. They centred on Hue, the old imperial capital badly damaged when the North Vietnamese occupied it during the lunar new year offensive in February.

MORE MONEY

In Washington President Johnson asked the U.S. Congress Tuesday for an additional $3,900,000,000 to support military operations in Vietnam and South Korea.

The request for a supplemental appropriation for the fiscal year that ends June 30 would increase estimated defence spending during the 12 months to $76,200,000,000 — up from a January forecast of $73,700,000,000.

Hands Off Arabs UN Tells Israel

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The UN Security Council Tuesday urged Israel to drop its plans for annexing the Israeli-occupied Arab sector to Jerusalem. The vote was 13-0, with the U.S. and Canada abstaining.

American Ambassador Arthur Goldberg said the question of Jerusalem should not be treated apart from the other Middle East problems.

Goldberg and Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff both expressed fear that the "divisive" decision asking Israel to call off the annexation would endanger delicate efforts of UN envoy Gunnar Jarring to get Arab-Israeli peace talks started.

SOFTENING SEEN

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik said "the ball is now in Israel's court. And, of course, in the court of those who protect and support Israel."

Hours of private consultations had resulted in the softening of the original resolution on Jerusalem offered by Pakistan and Senegal.

Right-Wing Parties Suffer Rulers, Reds Gain in Italy

ROME (UPI) — Italy's parliament, the Communists and Socialists ran governing coalition returned to power with an increased parliamentary majority in final election returns Tuesday. The advance was offset by the largest communist-front gain in 20 years.

The coalition of Premier Aldo Moro's Christian Democrats, Socialists and left-wing Republicans picked up 55.6 per cent of the vote for seats in the important chamber of deputies against 31.4 per cent for the Communist party and the pro-Chinese Proletarian Socialists.

SENATE COUNT

In the senate, the coalition won 55.8 per cent against 30 per cent for the Communist front.

Both the coalition and the Communist front gained parliamentary seats at the expense of three right-wing parties. The Communist front gain in itself—1.6 per cent—was not enough to worry seriously the coalition.

Scotched Rumor

FOR SOME weeks now it has been bruited about that the Progressive Conservative Party under Mr. Robert Stanfield's leadership has departed from its traditional stand of preserving Canada as a strong and united nation by making some kind of a deal with Quebec nationalists which would seriously threaten the nation's continued existence as a federal state.

This rumor — aided and abetted by the Tory leader's political opponents — gained such impetus across Western Canada that The Daily Colonist felt it imperative that Mr. Stanfield re-state and clarify his stand on this most vital issue.

In answer to the Colonist's request, Mr. Stanfield replied by telegram received Monday night. The text of his statement is as follows:

"Thank you for your telegram and for the opportunity it provides for me to re-state, as national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, our position.

"The Progressive Conservative Party stands for one country, one Canada with a federal system of government, one country of 'Two Founding Peoples', who have been joined by Canadians of other cultures.

"The concept of 'Two Founding Peoples' implies the right of both English and French-speaking Canadians to maintain their language and culture. The concept underlines the fact that the English and French languages have, and should have, special guarantees under the Canadian constitution. It does not detract in any way from the right and the opportunity of Canadians of other cultures to play a full part in Canadian life.

"I am advised that the French words 'Deux Nations' as used in a resolution at the Montmorency Conference, were intended purely in a sociological sense. In any event neither I, as the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, nor the party itself, accept any suggestion of 'Two Countries' or 'Two Canadas'."

"With regard to the term 'Special Status' I stated my position at some length in my speech to the policy conference at the leadership convention last fall.

"In summary, I understand and appreciate the desire of Quebec to have the means of preserving its identity as a largely French-speaking community, in a continent of over 200 million English-speaking North Americans. I believe that in any new arrangements that are suggested by the continuing committee of the prime minister and the provincial premiers, any new responsibilities contemplated for the provincial level must be offered to all provinces.

"Further, any new constitutional arrangements that are made must preserve the essential authority of the federal government, including among others, the authority to give effective direction to the national economy and bring all parts of Canada up to national standards."

Thus has Mr. Stanfield answered his critics and his doubters.

A Lost Battalion

TO WHAT extent Canada's admitted manpower shortage in the armed services is directly due to their unification is a question still unanswered by the department of national defence.

Professional military men of wide experience repeatedly warned the government that the destruction of the identities of navy, army and air force under the terms of the unification measure would seriously affect morale in the serving ranks and discourage future enlistments.

Recent evidence from Ottawa indicates the critics were correct.

Strangely, although the army appeared to be the least affected by the new look in Canada's military structure, that branch of service seems to have suffered most. Enlistments are reported to have dropped to a trickle of 15 a month.

Most disturbing of a number of unhappy developments is the announcement of the disbanding of one of the all-too-few regular army units — the 2nd Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. The Calgary-based unit of this famous regiment could muster only 350 of a normal strength of 900 men.

This remnant will be posted to other battalions, it is reported from Ottawa, but all are seriously under strength.

Defence department figures — the latest are for the end of February — show Canada possessed 102,386 service personnel at that time. Then, with the proclamation of the unification measure the government offered the option of retirement before the end of the enlistment period. In spite of efforts through "counselling" and pension penalties to discourage voluntary retirement, the services lost many trained men. Just how many has not been disclosed. But the fact that the present strength is "assumed" to be about 100,000 is significant.

When the former minister of national defence, Mr. Paul Hellyer, first introduced his unification bill, it was with a flurry of joyous trumpets. Canada would lead the world in the modernization of its fighting forces and create a model for all to follow, he claimed. He failed to reckon with the consequences of his scrapping of tradition and his ignoring of the pride in service which had contributed so much to Canadian effectiveness in peace and war.

To some extent public opinion was swayed towards acceptance of Mr. Hellyer's formula because of the promise of huge savings in the military budget. Col. Douglas Harkness, a former minister of defence in a Conservative government, said the other day the unification measure has not saved the nation a dollar.

An administration which tolerated, indeed encouraged, this dangerous experiment must now answer for the consequences. It has left an unwelcome legacy to its successor.

Unhappy Ending?

IT IS REPORTED that masterminds behind such a perennially best-selling children's books as The Bobsey Twins, The Hardy Boys and the Nancy Drew series — which sell in millions — have long decided that none of the main characters will ever be married off.

Once this happens, they say, popularity quickly goes.

It might be wondered these days if the same applies to bachelor prime ministers.

Don Peacock, Come Home

By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Valley Farm Boy, Old Joe Greene, Must Make a Transformation for Niagara

PITY poor Joe Greene.

He's taking an unmerciful

kidding.

Every time the agriculture minister who sort of likes to make out as the Canadian Abe Lincoln comes back to Parliament Hill — which is once a week for cabinet meetings — they keep asking him:

"What's an old Ottawa Valley farm boy like you doing in an industrial-tourist trap riding like Niagara Falls?"

The answer is that Joe's parachuting to safety in the Liberal bastion of Niagara Falls after redistribution of what was his old South Renfrew riding shot him down over the now Conservative stronghold of Lanark-Renfrew.

It was no more than a few changes to the boundaries of his old riding, but it was enough to transform Joe into a carpet-bagging political refugee.

Joe's having an awful time of it when he checks back into Ottawa, which just happens to be the regional capital of the valley of the same name as well as the national capital of the country.

Friends grin knowingly when they ask him the what's-an-old-farm-boy-like-you-doing-in-Niagara Falls?

And less friendly friends — for Joe really has no actual enemies — like to cackle. Like the chicken they later he is.

But don't laugh.

Joe suffers so dramatically, truly a beautiful performance.

He's feeling the agony because he realizes that the political transplantation from the valley barn yard to the Niagara machine shop isn't going to be easy, even for such a talented actor as the young Abe Lincoln.

"Cause Joe has spent these last five years carefully cultivating an image as blithely Jethro Bodine might aspire to reflect on the boob-tube.

You know the act — warm, folksy, 'ween-you-and-me, country slow drawl, the ridiculously rumped up looking like it came straight off the general store rack up Cornudasle. Cornus way, wily fetching haystack-style hair.

Just about everything except maybe the straw in the mouth, and sometimes, maybe, up the valley, even that.

And THAT isn't easy.

For Joe is really a city slicker.

From Toronto.

But he came to Arnprior and a one-desk law office up the valley nearly 20 years ago, got bitten by the political bug back around 1963, won the Renfrew South rural riding in '65, and when the Liberals came back from the '65 election with only one MP from the prairies, became the emergency "make do" minister of agriculture, the first from the east in a coon's age, as Joe might say.

Then he fell into the hands of that master political image-maker, Don Peacock, now departed these parts.

Sad to say, now that Joe needs him most, Don's been off to some political wars of his own, pot-shooting for the Liberal nomination in Leamington.

Don came to Joe after the manufacturing-for-that's-what-it-was, a straight piece of public relations hand-dancing — of Harry Hays.

Mr. Hays, a sophisticated millionaire cattle king and wheeler-dealer in real estate came to Ottawa from southern Alberta after the '63 election and found himself agriculture minister.

Don Peacock took him in hand and transformed the wealthy, globe-trotting Calgarian into a homespun Harry, the earthiest character this side of the High Chaparral.

He simply slipped the rich city slicker Mr. Henry Hays into his talented typewriter and pulled out a down-on-the-farm character from Peckinpah Creek in Alberta's High River rolling ranchlands and called him "Harry."

Remember those sillibubbly Harry used to throw, with everything on the bar tossed into the punch bowl with shaving cream, hair dye or you-name-it dumped in for extra added flavor?

That was Don, busy with the "making" of Homespun Harry.

So when Harry lost and Joe won in the '65 election, it was simply a case of Don picking up

And Joe became Abe Lincoln

Lovable. Lively. A laugh-a-minute.

Great for Renfrew South.

But credible in Niagara Falls?

Don Peacock, come home — Joe Greene needs you.

Czechs' Courageous Reforms May Invite Soviet's Reaction

By MARQUEE CHILDS

GEORGE KENNAN in his memoir gives a graphic and moving description of the rape of Czechoslovakia by the Nazis in 1938. Kennan was serving in the American Embassy in Prague as his country stood by in helpless indifference.

After the elimination of Jan

Masaryk, the last and symbolic remnant of a once-free and democratic people, almost certainly by assassination directed from the Kremlin, a long, dark night descended. The visitor to Prague had the impression that all the Communist capitals

this was the most subservient and squalid. The past seemed to be dead and quite thoroughly buried.

All the more amazing then was to see that the fire of freedom and independence had not been extinguished despite the cruel rigors of the Stalinist era. In recent weeks it has burst forth in a dozen different directions showing how strongly

The Kids Are In

'You Aren't Going to Play in My Yard...'

IF what I read is true, life at the home of Bobby Kennedy

these tense election days must be very complicated indeed.

I mean, now the Kennedy clan is checking all the friends of their kids — and no one has more kids than the Kennedy clan — to make sure they are politically pure.

This bit of information came to my attention the other day when a Washington dispatch was published claiming that the

had been banned from the Kennedy swimming pool. The kid was de-dubbed, sent home and told never again to inhale the Kennedy pool chlorine fumes.

At first I thought this was probably child warfare indulged in by the Kennedy kids. After all, at that age kids are amazingly savage and love to punish a playmate for the sins real or imagined, of the father.

But this was not so, or so the news item said. The six-year-old — up to this tense election time a pal of the Kennedy

tads — had been told to pick up

and Mrs. Bobby Kennedy.

In Washington these days they are playing a brand of real tough politics. Even the kids are not immune.

However, it is something new in politics — a loyalty check at the swimming pool.

"Who did your father vote for?" a secret service man will ask before a kid is allowed to climb a tree.

And if some child is found with an old Stevenson button — pow, zap, out.

Mind you, I guess we should have foreseen this. After all, it was just a little while ago that the Republicans were all ago when it was announced that grandson of former president was fooling around with that

McCarthy kid down the street, his father might get all in a lather.

"Stay away from that Gene McCarthy offspring," he might berew. And then have to back-track when he is told this is the nephew of the late Senator Joe McCarthy — obviously a politically acceptable kid.

For 'Oppressed' Gibraltar

Anti-Colonialists Make a Pious Case

By ROBERT BETTS

THE ancient fortress of Gibraltar has undergone 18 sieges in its colonial history. Now it is under siege again. The enemy this time is an angry, exasperated Spanish government.

Outraged because Britain has repeatedly rejected Spain's claim to the two square miles of rugged rock, Madrid has taken several retaliatory actions aimed at damaging the colony's economy. The latest is the closing of the land link with the Spanish mainland, thus shutting off Gibraltar's badly needed tourist income.

Whatever the 25,000 Gibraltarians may think — and most of them think Madrid is being spiteful — the Spaniards feel their action is fully justified by Britain's refusal to hand back a bit of territory which they say is rightfully theirs.

Actually the British won it in battle two centuries ago. In the war of the Spanish Succession in 1704, they wrested the fort from Spanish defenders. It was ceded to Britain under the 1713 Treaty of Utrecht.

Spain does not argue the validity of the treaty, but it accuses Britain of violating it several times, encroaching into Spanish territory in the isthmus for the military airfield extension and lording it over Spanish territorial waters.

Over the years Gibraltar has been transformed from an 18th Century fortress into an imperial base and finally into a vital Mediterranean link in the strategic Western Alliance.

"Gibraltar is no longer only a British stronghold," says Spanish Foreign Minister Fernando Castiella. "But a North Atlantic Treaty Organization base, and thus an important element in the Atlantic alliance, in which we are not and do not ask to be included."

"The airfield, port and international base are inserted into Spain, without Spain's having anything to do with the matter."

He complained: "We find ourselves situated within the framework of a strategy of world scope; we have not given our consent, but we have to suffer the consequences of that insertion. We are a potential objective for aggression by any country or international coalition that may be a rival to the Atlantic one, but without our belonging to the latter."

These and other violations, Spain alleges, thus vitiate the legal basis of the British presence on the Rock.

The Gibraltar dispute involves more than a simple case of outraged Spanish pride, however. Like most other colonial issues it has deep implications which are bound up with the continuing East-West confrontation.

The manoeuvring began when the United Nations Committee on Colonialism, charged with encouraging the evolution of non-self-governing territories, decided in 1953 to include the case of Gibraltar on its agenda. The request to do so came from Communist Bulgaria and Cambodia — two countries with which Spain had no diplomatic relations.

Having set out to free colonies according to the Marxist style book, the committee — half of whom have never known a day of real democratic freedom in their lives — took it for granted that Gibraltar as a colony must be suffering oppression.

Britain declared the committee was not competent to decide the matter and thought the Gibraltarians should have some say themselves. Accordingly a referendum was held in September, 1967.

Only 64 out of 12,122 voters believed the Rock should be handed back to Spain. The others preferred to keep it British.

After that revealing vote, Madrid declined invitations from London to resume talks. The referendum was nothing but a cunning ruse, it charged, meant to convince the world that if Britain granted self-government or acceded to the wishes of the Gibraltarian population she would have complied with the UN decolonization mandate.

By FRANK LOWE

Dwight Eisenhower had become engaged to the daughter of former vice-president Richard Nixon.

Mr. Eisenhower kind of put a damper on this merging of two royal political families when he said he was absolutely delighted to hear that his grandson was courting the daughter of "my great friend and colleague."

... ah ... what's his name.

In other words, the political battle lines across the border are tightening.

But even so, I must confess I never suspected that six-year-olds would be banned from splash parties because their fathers supported a certain political candidate.

If this keeps up some gifted Washington correspondent is going to be able to write a 20th-century version of that long-time favorite, Romeo and Juliet.

"This negative hangman, this retreat into intellectual Embo, the eastern Mediterranean escape from boredom. But it is hardly compatible with the pressing manpower needs of developing countries."

Aggressive Foreign Policy Bound to Be Blunted

Revolt Blow to de Gaulle

By CARL MOLLINS
From Paris

The rebellion of French workers, students and some professionals is likely to blunt President de Gaulle's aggressive foreign policy, regardless of how the domestic crisis is resolved.

The Gaullist government's determined pursuit of its own way in international relations during the last few years has depended on stability on the home front.

The confident tone critics would say self-righteousness—in French foreign policy since the Fifth Republic was established 10 years ago results largely from the ideas and personality of the president himself.

But without evidence of domestic political stability and economic well-being, the de Gaulle government would have been no more capable than the succession of hamstrung Fourth Republic governments of pursuing a credible independent line.

France's determination to go its own way on defence—in defiance of the Atlantic Alliance, for example, or the international agreement to ban most nuclear tests—rested on the government's assertion that the country could afford to scorn mutual defence and develop its "force de frappe."

France's ability to hold out for its own ideas on world monetary reform and European Common Market policy likewise depended on the appearance of a strong domestic economy and the accumulation of healthy gold and foreign-currency reserves.

Even such Gaullist gestures as his courtship of Quebec and the wooing of Soviet-bloc states were made to seem more important because he was able to back them up with talk of his renovated France providing aid and trade.

Some French economic experts argue that, ironically, the self-assertive foreign and defence policies have helped undermine the economic progress that originally made such policies credible.

Diversing resources to the country's reserves kit, nuclear weaponry and other prestige enterprises has been done at the expense of development and reform in such internal fields as education, housing, medicine and industrial modernization.

At the same time, the average Frenchman's purchasing power has failed to keep pace with a 45-per-cent rise in consumer prices in the last 10 years.

Thus the apparent political stability of the last decade has been menaced by this week's rebellious popular demand for social and economic reform.

Even if de Gaulle can stave off upheavals such as the government's collapse, currency devaluation and another Western money crisis, he can hardly evade expensive social and economic reforms that would tend to diminish his self-confident posture in international affairs.

Major Misjudgment Led to Paris Talks

U.S. Government Caught Napping by Hanoi's 'Yes'

By HENRY BRANDON
From Washington

The proposals for modification of President Johnson's limited bombing policy that have reached Johnson's desk from Saigon indicate the growing unhappiness and discomfort there with the Paris negotiations.

Both the American military and civilian authorities, not to mention the South Vietnamese government, are increasingly concerned that under the current circumstances the military disadvantages from the American viewpoint are likely to increase.

It has not yet been reported that the Paris negotiations most likely would not have come to pass but for a major misjudgment by virtually everybody—the American government. This major misjudgment was that nobody here expected Hanoi to accept the President's offer on March 31 of a limited bombing halt.

At the time there was a considerable debate within the administration whether the time had come for a complete or limited halt in the bombing. A total halt was rejected but a limited halt had virtually unanimous support not only from the doves but also from the hawks; the latter simply expected it to be rejected.

This does not mean that the President's proposal was put forth as a sort of Machiavellian play or for propaganda purposes; it was a genuine feeler on his part.

He was impressed at the time by the fact that among the group of his senior advisers now in private life, which included such highly experienced and respected men as Dean Acheson, McGeorge Bundy, retired Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Arthur Dean, Cyrus Vance and several others he had consulted about a week earlier, only two, a retired ambassador with experience mostly in Europe and a former chairman of the joint chiefs of state, argued against negotiations.

With the total halt of the bombing rejected by a majority but the limited halt approved unanimously the President thus closely followed the advice he had been given—even if some, ironically, had given it under a false assumption.

It is in this light therefore that the happening of the Paris negotiations should be seen and judged—and also their prospects should Hanoi refuse to offer any concessions.

For Mutual Interest

Gulf Sheikhs Stop Bickering

By JOE ALEX MORRIS, from Dubai

The fledgling Federation of Arabian Emirates created by the leaders of the oil-rich Persian Gulf sheikhdoms to fill the vacuum left by British withdrawal from the area was not a stillbirth after all.

It now appears that the ultimate greater interest of the sheikhdoms has at least in principle overridden their petty squabbles. A committee of experts from all nine sheikhdoms is now meeting in Abu Dhabi to work out the details of how to make the federation work.

The federation consists of the seven trilateral states, of which Abu Dhabi is the biggest and the richest, plus Qatar and Bahrain. Its main purpose was to create a viable state big and influential enough to keep the wolves at bay—notably Iran and Saudi Arabia, both of which have pretensions of replacing Britain as the dominant power in the Gulf when the British complete their "East of Suez" withdrawal in 1971.

It was these larger powers which cast one of several shadows across the federation even before it was born. Iran claims Bahrain. Qatar is on particularly friendly terms with Saudi Arabia, which—along with Abu Dhabi and Muscat—claims the Buraimi Oasis.

Sheikh Zaid, the ruler of Abu Dhabi, wanted to limit the federation to the trilateral states—which would have put him in a good position to dominate it. Sheikh Rashid of Dubai, who married his daughter off to the ruler of Qatar, was anxious to broaden the federation to prevent Zaid from doing just that.

Rashid runs a prosperous commercial centre in Dubai with gold smuggling into India and Pakistan a major factor in this prosperity. Last year upwards of $200,000,000 in gold passed through Dubai.

The experts have many problems to wrestle with, among them selecting a suitable site for a capital and naming the first head of the federation. They will also have to decide whether to abandon the principle of unanimous decisions—something which could easily turn the federation into a farce given the quarrels and rivalries common to the region—as well as questions of nationality, foreign policy and defence.

Use Reaches Alarming Proportions

Is Mary Jane Dangerous?

By MARVIN D. LIPTON

Call it what you wish—pot, grass, locoweed, cannabis sativa, hashish, tea, sage, reefer, sticks, joints, or Mary Jane—more teenagers are "turning on" with marijuana than ever before.

Authorities now say that the use of hallucinatory drugs like marijuana has reached alarming proportions in Canadian secondary schools and universities.

An increasing number of young people are being marked for life as criminals because of their violations of our narcotic legislation. The maximum sentence for trafficking in marijuana is life imprisonment. For possession and importing one can draw up to seven years behind bars.

Such imposing penalties suggest that society considers the marijuana habit an undesirable one that ought to be thoroughly discouraged. Actually, there is growing doubt about the danger of pot and whether its use should be considered a crime.

Most medical men state the only physical effect of smoking marijuana is temporary impairment of visual and muscular co-ordination. It can cause visual hallucinations, pronounced anxiety and transient psychoses lasting four to six hours.

Although it is all but conclusive that cigarette smoking results in lung cancer, and alcohol leads to alcoholism, numerous diseases and death on the roads, both

Hardin B. Jones, a professor of medical physics and physiology at the University of California, recently stated that too many experts ignore the use of marijuana evokes a quick response from the police. Inspector William Pilkington of Toronto's Morality Bureau claims the number of Canadian drug addicts would increase thirty-fold to 100,000 if we legalize pot.

The crux of the whole argument may be contained in a statement by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau: "Use of marijuana should not be listed as a criminal offense if medical evidence shows it to be harmless." It appears that proof that pot is safe or harmful will require study of thousands of habitual users over a protracted period of time to achieve statistical validity.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Dr. W. E. Mann, a York University sociologist, recently testified before a court that marijuana was important to anyone belonging to subculture with a different set of values from the world around it. How far should the law go to accommodate subcultures or minorities?

If a significant minority disagrees with the laws, what measures should be taken, if any, to prevent the whole legal fabric from falling into disrepute? What are the acceptable ways of trying to win changes in the law in a democracy?

liquor and cigarettes are legally available on the market.

Why then outlaw marijuana when the use of other products at least as noxious, perhaps more so, is permitted?

It is commonly argued that marijuana is a stepping stone to more potent drugs which are addictive. But there is no precise medical evidence that this is true.

A synthesis of the main intoxicant in marijuana, tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) has been shown to cause a psychotic reaction in every would describe it as a rush, and the experience of most was about 80 per cent of the new bond purchases would be paid for by redemption of other savings-type securities. The replacement Canada Savings Bonds bear the highest interest rate ever offered.

PARIS BUYS GOLD

Trading in gold was more active in London than it has been since the reopening of the bullion market there, and heavy buying was reported from Paris where rioting and strikes closed the banks.

TRIZCO COMES NEXT

Next on the list is Trizec, which will give Canadians the opportunity of securing an equity position in one of Canada's largest foreign-owned real estate development firms through the issue of common shares.

Trizec Corp., which owns and controls Villa Place Marie in Montreal and shopping centres in Toronto, Burnaby and Halifax, is to sell later this week 3,500,000 shares at a price still to be decided, but probably about $1.65 each.

MANY FACETS

Villa Place Marie is part of the great downtown development in Montreal, combining shopping centres, hotels, offices and even a movie theatre. The company owns the Brentwood Shopping Centre in Burnaby, the Yorkdale shopping centre, in Toronto and the Halifax shopping centre, the largest in the Maritimes.

BRITISH FIRM

Trizec is owned 35 per cent by Eagle Star Co., a British insurance firm; 30 per cent by Second Covent Garden Property Co., a leading London landowning firm, and 15 per cent by Dominion Investments of Montreal.

After the new issue there will be 19,000,000 shares outstanding of which about 20 per cent will be in the public offering. The company's funded debt is $164,000,000.

It is regarded as a "long haul" vehicle for capital gains and no immediate income.

DEBITS DIP AGAIN

Debits to individual bank accounts in the Victoria area are continuing to decline from the record levels established a year ago, according to April figures just released by the Canadian Bankers Association.

The April total of $425,800,000 compared with $483,800,000 a year ago and with $483,600,000 in March.

It was the third month in succession the total had been less than that of the corresponding month of 1967.

FOUR MONTHS
The four-month total for 1968 is $1,745,600,000, down nearly 6 per cent from $1,878,900,000 in the corresponding period of 1967.

The Canadian Bankers' Association makes no effort to analyze the fluctuations of its activity statistics, but it is generally regarded the loss of payroll income by many shipworkers has been partly responsible for the change in a four-year long trend.

BONDS STILL "OPEN"

The holiday weekend provoked considerable anxiety among holders of Canada Savings Bonds and other "instant cash" securities, that the new replacement Canada Savings Bonds, giving a yield to maturity of 5.88 per cent, might be withdrawn before the banks reopened Tuesday morning.

The result was a fair stream of investors at the offices of financial houses in Victoria Tuesday morning to effect the exchange.

However, although it is not expected more than $200,000,000 of the new bonds will be sold to the public, most of the business had been completed without warning from Finance Minister Benson to close subscriptions.

FAIR VOLUME

While banks, trust companies and investment houses reported a fair volume of business, few coming into the market. South Africa is withholding its new gold production, and speculators are holding out for even higher prices.

CANADIAN PROMOTED

A Canadian chartered accountant, James D. W. Blyth, has been named president and chief executive officer of Canada Dry, which has amalgamated with Hunt Foods and McCell Corp. to become Norton Simon Inc.

A Regina man, Blyth was a vice-president with Canadian Breweries at Toronto for eight years, working for Carling Breweries in Cleveland and Schlitz International in Milwaukee before joining Canada Dry in 1967.

Fair Survives Wet Weekend

MONTRÉAL (CP) — Man and His World, despite a disastrous rainy first weekend, registered a profitable attendance, an exhibition spokesman said Tuesday.

Officials calculated that if Man and His World gets 40 per cent of the Expo 67 attendance it will be a financial success—20,000,000 visits compared with Expo's 50,000,000.

"So far we've been getting 45 per cent of the 1967 attendance figures," the spokesman said.

The attendance Friday was 103,226, Saturday 120,142, Sunday 142,642, Monday 60,474.

Man and His World's five-month run—ending Oct. 14—means that to attain the 20,000,000 about 1,000,000 visitors a week will be needed.

UNIQUE SHOW
At La Ronde, a group of energetic Czechs showed some of the verve that drew 1,147,000 customers last year at $1.50 each to Laterna Magika, a unique blend of film and theatre.

Laterna Magika uses color film on several screens together with dancers and music. Each item is based on a film and actors mime on stage then dash sideways at screens, seeming to melt into the film.

At the same moment, the actors appear on film, identically costumed, to carry on the action.

Paper Firm Claims First

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — A revolutionary paper-making machine was unveiled Tuesday at the Canadian International Paper Co. mill here.

In contrast to the traditional paper-making process involving horizontal movement, the action of the new machine — Verti-Forma—produces a sheet of paper with identical pressing surfaces and other physical characteristics on both sides.

This has never been achieved in the history of paper-making, officials claimed.

Tacoma Team Scores

DID IT ALL

Whitestones won the four-day, double-knockout tournament, which was sponsored by the Victoria Senior Men's Open Softball League, in three straight games with Christensen going all the way.

After nipping Red Lion Inn, 2-1, in 13 innings on Saturday, Tacoma downed O'Keefe's, 1-0, in Monday's winner's bracket semi-final and followed up with an 8-4 victory in the final.

Christensen won his own ball game in the semi-final, singling in Greg Flynn, who led off the top of the ninth inning with a double, to best Ken Larson in a fine pitcher's duel.

Jack Lieth and Gary Siefried hit the other homers.

STOPPED LIONS

O'Keefe's gained their second chance against Tacoma by defeating Red Lion Inn, 3-1, in the losers' bracket semi-final. Red Lions had eliminated Auburn Wash, 5-2, Colony Inn, 5-0, and Molsons, 5-0, after their loss to Tacoma in the first round.

Hugh quantities of sand were required to make the field playable after Sunday's downpour and the league has rescheduled the game between Bate Construction and Colony Inn from Tuesday to tonight at 6:45 p.m.

NANAIMO—Carl Schwantje of Victoria Golf club won the Mid-Island junior title Monday at Nanaimo Golf and Country club in a special playoff with Brian Stott of Gorge Vale.

The two tied with three-over-par 75 for the 18 scheduled holes. Stott won on the 20th hole when he sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie two after Stott missed a 15-foot attempt for a birdie. They both bogied the par-four 19th.

Blake, Provost Bound Over After Preliminary Hearing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—

The coach of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, Hector "Toe" Blake, and player Claude Provost Monday were bound over to Superior Court for action on charges they assaulted a fan during a game here last Nov. 19.

Blake, 55, and Provost, 34, appeared in Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing following which Judge Vaino Spencer ordered them to return to Superior Court June 3 for arraignment.

The pair is accused of striking Bernard Weisman, 39, Northridge, Calif., with a hockey stick during an argument at a game between the Canadiens and the Los Angeles Kings at the Forum in nearby Inglewood.

Weisman and two other witnesses testified during the afternoon hearing.

One of the witnesses, Peter A. Tenen, 37, Sherman Oaks, Calif., testified that he saw Blake hit Weisman with a hockey stick after Weisman had been "heckling" the coach and the members of the Montreal team.

Weisman admitted that he got into a verbal exchange with Blake and said the Montreal coach waved at him to come down to the bench and said "Then you'll see what happens."

Weisman said he got up from his aisle seat and moved to a position about three rows behind the Canadiens' bench. He said he did this "so I could answer him verbally."

"The last thing I remember is being hit on top of the head with a hockey stick," Weisman said. He said that after being struck with the stick, he tumbled from the third row over the seats to the second row where he felt other blows on his arms, legs and chest.

Weisman said he spent 13 days in the hospital following the incident and he suffered a head wound which required 20 stitches to close.

B. L. Ottens, 41, Granda Hills, Calif., also testified that his wife, Margaret, 37, suffered a mild concussion when she was struck on the head by a hockey stick during the fracas.

Weisman and Mrs. Ottens have filed a damage suit totalling $655,000 against Blake and Provost for injuries allegedly received during the incident.

Sweep for Spokane Driver In Strawberry Cup Races

Jim Roberts of Spokane captured everything but the kitchen stove—and the track record—Monday in the Canadian American Modified Racing Association sanctioned Strawberry Cup race at Western Speedway.

It was the first appearance in Victoria for the veteran driver since a bad accident in Portland in 1965 and Roberts quickly showed why he is the leading driver in the early CAMRA events.

After clocking the second fastest time in the lap trials of 16:83 seconds, Roberts scored a sweep with victories in the trophy dash, fast heat and the featured 50-lap cup race.

It took Roberts just five laps to get to the front in the feature race from the back of the pack.

The only thing Roberts missed out on was the track record. His clocking was .03 faster than the old record of 16:81 set by Jim Malloy in 1964.

However, Bob Gregg of Spokane, who had to drop out of the cup feature after a couple of laps, set a modified record for the track of 16:86 during the trials.

DROPPED AGAIN

It was the first of two lap records to be set Monday. In the evening meet for stock and super-stock cars, Gary Kershaw lowered the stocker's mark to 20:60, .03 of a second faster than the record set by Larry Walker two weeks ago.

Kershaw went on to duplicate Roberts' sweep, winning the trophy dash, fast heat and main event.

Dave Cooper was the standout driver in the super-stock section with wins in the heat and main event races.

Goldie Standout At Fivepin Meet

Standout bowling by Norm Goldie and May Wallis wasn't quite enough to win the aggregate trophy for Victoria in the Pacific Coast Fivepin championships held at Gibson's Recreations over the weekend.

Goldie, averaging 288 with an eight-game total of 2,305 points, won the men's singles and Mrs. Wallis, averaging 263 with an eight-game total of 2,106, placed second in the women's singles but Vancouver won the grand aggregate with 31 points.

Victoria was third with 29 points, one behind runner-up Burnaby.

Closest to Goldie in the men's singles was Rob Tait of North Shore, who had 2,237 points. Leota Valleau of Burnaby won the women's singles with 2,187.

Burnaby won the women's team event with 9,395 points with Victoria second at 8,918. Vancouver won the men's team event with 9,824 with the Upper Island team second at 9,672.

Vancouver also won the mixed-team event with 9,419. Port Moody, a new entry in the championships, was second with 9,386 and Victoria third with 9,251 points.

Corner Kicks Beat City XI

PENTICTON — Vancouver Lobans were awarded the decision over Victoria Royal Oak on corner kicks in the final of the eight-team Victoria Day invitational junior soccer tournament Monday when two overtime periods failed to break a 1-1 tie.

NINE TEAMS

Nine areas were represented by teams chosen in regional playdowns. Behind the top three were Port Coquitlam with 18 points, Port Moody with 18 points, North Shore with 14 points, North Surrey with 13, West Westminster with 11 and Upper Island with 10.

Play started on Saturday, Archie McKinnon officially opening things by rolling the first ball, and ended on Monday.

make waves

New high performance Johnson 55 hp.

This is the one to catch for 1968; Johnson's all-new 55 horsepower. It's got enough wave making ideas to keep competition chasing for years.

The 55 is a three-cylinder, triple carburetor 49.7 cubic inch performance engine that took six years to engineer. The result is a hot, sports outboard that'll out-perform anything in its class. Anything.

The 55's first powerful idea is loop charging—an efficient new way of getting fuel mixture into the combustion chamber and exhaust gases out. It's teamed with electronic ignition (another Johnson development) that delivers fire power that's ten times faster than conventional systems. You get instant power all the way from idle to flat out.

The 55 has new ideas at the business end, too. The gear case incorporates tuned prop-hub exhaust and a new computer-designed drag-free profile. Inside there's a whole new transmission idea: electro-hydraulic shifting. When you move Johnson's single-lever forward the transmission reacts electrically (very fast) while oil pressure shifts the gear (very smooth).

The 55 is the hottest motor on the boating scene this year. It's one of 14 new Seahorse outboards, everything from 1½ horsepower to 115. Make waves—see your nearby Johnson dealer, he's listed in the yellow pages.

Big Trout Derby Won By Victoria Woman

A Victoria woman took the two main prizes in the Cowichan Lake St. Louis Men's Club derby Saturday. Mrs. H. Cummins, 1384 Hastings, landed a 5.9-pound trout to win the prizes for the biggest trout of the derby and biggest trout landed by a woman.

Cowichan Lake anglers weighed in 317 trout in the one-day fishfest and the $100 prize for guessing the correct number of entries was shared by Irene Ench of Honeycomb Bay and W. J. David of 1454 Trans-Canada Highway.

OTHER WINNERS

Frank Clevette, with a 4.10-pounder, had the second biggest trout. Ricky Gravelle won the prize for under-15-year-olds with a 3.11-pounder.

Hidden weight prizes were won by Mrs. L. Dumagan, G. Klughart, M. Williamson, T. L. Houlahan, Peter Connell, W. Leskey, G. Edgington, George Simpson, Hugh Aylmer, D. Lubin, R. Ratzinger, Mrs. Cummins, K. A. Buchanan and W. Gonne.

Think you're too old to buy life insurance?

If you think you've left buying life insurance until it's too late—stop worrying. Manufacturers Life has helped many people in their 60's and 70's make new life insurance one of their wisest purchases ever. It's true that the cost of new life insurance increases with age and when health problems are present. On the other hand, the "cost" of not buying can be much higher. For example, a man, age 75, has a substantial portfolio of investments. When he dies estate taxes must be paid. To raise cash the executor might be forced to sell an business or other income-producing assets. A "distress" sale or unfavourable market conditions mean sacrifice prices and severe losses to the survivors. Life insurance can prevent this loss by providing the necessary cash, leaving the other assets intact. You can rely on Manufacturers Life's sound reputation, and liberal approach to the special problems of life insurance for older people. Call the Man from Manufacturers. You will find him a well-informed professional able to provide the important counsel necessary to meet your needs.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief — here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months. Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions — even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dynas) — developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Russians Retain Betting Instinct Display Urge for Mutuel Profits

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's most popular race track is making in thousands of rubles as mobs of horse-crazy Russians are greeting the opening days of the 1968 flat racing season with tremendous enthusiasm.

Disregarding the non-Communist aspect of the sport, enthusiasts kept the betting windows busy for 17 races when the season began Sunday.

"Past. Take No. 9" confided one shifty-eyed young Russian to a foreigner waiting in line. "This is a good horse."

The well informed tout would have fitted in at any race track in the world. No. 9 won by a nose.

Horse racing at Moscow's Central Hippodrome is still packing in the crowds after a colorful 150-year history. It remains one of the most popular survivals of Tsarist Russia.

The horses are interbred with British, American and other proven winners and their performances rank with the world's best.

Jockeys, also known as "jockies" in Russian, are fitted out in traditional costumes, the gayest of which are provided by theatrical prop houses.

The racing season began without ceremony. After a few seconds of applause for Marshal Semyon Budenn, a famous Russian army cavalry officer who heads track affairs for the state, the fans got down to business. Betting was brisk and the first race started on time.

Bettors are limited to one-ruble or two rubles $1.11 or $2.22 bets, but this adds up fast on a long program.

It is possible to win 500 ruble or two rubles $1.11 or $2.22, depending on the odds, but most tickets on opening day paid off little more than their value. It was a bad day for long shots.

other benefits—and reform of the universities would force the government to dig deeply into the gold reserves de Gaulle has been piling up during the last several years.

This in turn would at the least delay the general's attack on what he calls the privileges of the reserve currencies, the U.S. dollar and the pound sterling.

Higher wages and operating costs also would put French industry at a distinct disadvantage in relation to its Common Market partners little more than five weeks before the final customs barriers are to come down.

The cabinet decided there would be no punishment for 44 students charged with violence in the street riots that led into

'Travel Sickness' Affects Many—

ESPECIALLY CHILDREN

Many find that nausea, upset stomach make a trip in a car, bus, boat, or plane a dreaded misery. A simple home remedy is effective in such attacks—Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Formulated from gentle-acting roots and herbs, Dr. Fowler's Extract acts quickly to relieve "butterfly stomach". Many home uses, including Dizziness or "Summer Complaint" brought on by change of diet, water, or climate, or over-indulgence. Take Dr. FOWLER'S Extract of Wild Strawberry with you.

the nation's strike crisis. Summoned by de Gaulle, the ministers approved an amnesty bill that will be submitted to Parliament today. Of the accused youths, 21 had been convicted and 23 were facing court action.

The French Communist party called for an end to de Gaulle's regime and the formation of "a true republican regime opening the way to socialism."

REFERENDUM?

Political informants said de Gaulle was considering a move to enlist the backing of the French people for a wide reform of French political and social institutions. They reported he was thinking of consulting the nation, possibly as early as next month, by means of a referendum.

He may announce this move in a television broadcast to the country scheduled for Friday evening.

Informants said he may also reshuffle the government to eliminate some of the ministers who have come most directly under fire because of their handling of the student riots and the widening industrial unrest.

Strikes were affecting almost every facet of French life in the gravest threat yet posed to the Fifth Republic. The situation was strongly reminiscent of the turmoil that brought de Gaulle, the Free French leader of the Second World War, back to power in 1958.

Tourists as well as Frenchmen suffered. The strikes stopped trains, subways and buses. Airport and seaports were closed.

All flour mills in the area of the capital shut down. Coping with the threat that this might lead to a shortage of bread, a government agency released 10,000 tons of flour from security stocks. That represents about 10 days' consumption for Paris.

The capital is heaped high with uncollected garbage. Dust, leaflets and handbills litter unwept streets. Only a relative handful of taxis are still available for transport and they are due to strike today.

VICES are expected to be operating this morning when all schools will be open.

Two schools closed Tuesday after the union withdrew special permits for hauling water to Transor school and for emptying a septic tank at Drinkwater. Gibbins Road school had to be closed because all the toilets were plugged.

In an open board meeting the joint meeting board chairman Joseph Frumento said: "I do not think our office workers are being paid sub-standard wages. These women are putting a gun to our heads. We have no alternative but to accede to the union's demands."

'NOT RESPONSIBLE'

"As responsible women, they are not showing much responsibility or consideration for education in this district."

Trustee John Efford said: "Most of the office workers are married women. Most of them do not need this money which they claim we are withholding. The board made a fair offer of 8.85 per cent. We were very fair in our deliberations, and we were also trying to protect the taxpayers' money."

Island King

Foul weather did little to discourage the festivities at the Indian Regatta at Brentwood Bay Sunday afternoon.

A crowd of about 1,200 gathered to watch the afternoon's events, the highlight being the Vancouver Island war canoe championship.

Ten crews competed for the Bishop Hill Memorial Trophy. The winner was the Mount Prevost of Duncan and the Island Queen of Kuper Island came second.

Miss Shirley Ann Wilson of Duncan, chosen Princess of the Regatta, is currently studying at the Institute of Adult Studies.

172 Saved by Armada As Cruise Ship Burns

LONDON (AP) — Fire swept the 5,000-ton Norwegian cruise ship Blenheim Tuesday and forced her 98 passengers and most of the 80 crew members to abandon ship in the North Sea where they were rescued from lifeboats by an international armada.

A passenger and an officer of the Blenheim were reported injured by the ship's owners, the Fred Olsen Line, said "everybody was rescued." Six crew members stayed aboard to fight the fire. They had assistance from tugs.

The Blenheim was halfway across the North Sea on a regular run from Newcastle to Oslo.

The fire of undetermined origin broke out in mid-morning. The sea was calm as a fleet of rescue ships, planes and Dutch supply vessel, will try to tow the Blenheim to a safe harbor with the help of two West German tugs.

with the '68 Ambassador.

We estimate that 10,000 Canadians will buy our Ambassador this year. The cool 10,000 who'll be getting themselves into the most comfortable full-size car we've ever built.

The big reason is air conditioning.

Last year, you had to pay almost $500 extra to get air conditioning. You'll have to pay it again this year on a Ford, Chev, or Plymouth. But not on an Ambassador!

On Ambassador, air-conditioning is included, at no extra cost!

This is a fully-integrated air conditioning system designed for us by Kelvinator. It can take a hot, sticky day and cool it as low as you like.

In winter, the same big blowers and extra vents warm things up much faster.

Ambassador's concern for your comfort doesn't stop with the temperature. Rattle-free single unit construction, coil spring seats, double weather seals on doors and windows and a one-piece acoustical fibreglass ceiling are all standard features.

Like we said, the most comfortable full-size car we've ever built. It starts at $3289 (fob the factory in Brampton, Ontario). Join the cool 10,000 who'll buy Ambassador this year. See your local American Motors dealer. But do it soon... once it gets hot out, there'll be a crowd.

Outer-Area Budget Under Fire

A tentative budget is nothing but a "bill of goods" to sell people in the unorganized territories on incorporation, says a dissident Langford resident.

A formal request for an incorporation vote for Colwood-Langford-Metchosin has been made to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, but no reply has been received.

Suggested date for the referendum was June 23.

QUESTIONED DRAFT

Ronald Ridley, 508 Ridley, who sat on an incorporation study group three years ago, questioned the figures presented in a draft budget by the present study group.

His sentiments were echoed by another former committee member, Andy Cottyn.

LARGE SURPLUS

According to the draft budget issued by a group which made a six-month study, the 14,500 population could have the services now enjoyed, pay the same mill rate, and have $97,620 surplus revenue.

"This would mean a per capita cost of only $51," said Mr. Ridley.

"There's not a municipality on the Island that does it as cheaply as that."

WIDE RANGE

"Cost on the ISLAND IN 1966 ranged from Central Saanich's $72 per capita to Campbell River's $131."

"The study group is just telling the people a bill of goods so that the area will incorporate," said Mr. Ridley.

Mr. Cottyn pointed out that people in the area had voted in favor of progress such as hospitals, parks and the swimming pool.

REGIONAL BOARD

"We have all the rules and regulations we need... I don't know what we need another level of government for when we have the regional board," said Mr. Cottyn.

"I don't know what we would have to gain out here—we get good services from the provincial government."

WORKS COST 'LOW'

Reg Antrobus, a contractor, also opposed incorporation and questioned the figures in the draft budget.

In particular, he said, he felt the public works figure of $120,000 was too low.

NOT GETTING IT BACK

Advocates of incorporation interviewed included Rev. W. J. O'Brien and M. J. Kublashek.

Father O'Brien said the people in the area were putting $700,000 a year into provincial government coffers.

"It is my firm conviction that we aren't getting that money back in services. We are subsidizing other communities," he added.

Mr. Kublashek said, "If people aren't satisfied, they can correct errors in the polling booth."

Vancouver Chess Ace Conquers Island

By RAY KERR

NANAIMO — Duncan Suttles of Vancouver is making it a habit to come, see and conquer, whenever he plays chess on Vancouver Island.

Just as he did the last time he was here — three years ago — the 23-year-old UBC student swept through the field over the weekend to win the Vancouver Island open chess championship at Credit Union hall.

Suttles, B.C.'s only international chess master, finished with a perfect 5-0 record. Three years ago, also in Nanaimo, he won the B.C. open with a 5½-½ score.

Following Suttles came three more Vancouver players, all with 4-1 scores — Karl Beisheim, Alan Hill and Peter Biyasas. Biyasas, 17, also captured the Island junior crown, competing against eight other under-18 players.

The best Island score was by George Adikrehrer of Victoria, 3½-1½. It was enough for him to win the C section.

However, by choosing the lower-section prize, he deprived himself of a chance to represent the Island in provincial playoffs later this year.

This will be decided between Victoria's Alan Lane and Edward Seedhouse, who finished tied as the highest Islanders in the A section with 3-2 records. It still hasn't been decided how the tie will be broken.

Suttles picked up $50 for his first-place finish, with 26 players competing in the five-round event under the direction of Alfred Schulz of Nanaimo.

Radar Getting More Efficient

OTTAWA (CP)—A new $500,000 radar control system on order for the transport department will help air traffic controllers know the position of aircraft hundreds of miles away more efficiently and economically. The transport department says Airborne Instruments Laboratory of Long Island, N.Y., is developing the system, expected here by January for a year-long test.

U.S. Draft Resistance

Trial 'Delights' Spock

BOSTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the conspiracy trial of Dr. Benjamin Spock quoted the pediatrician Tuesday as being "delighted" to stand trial.

Hammering away at what he presented as self-incriminating statements by Spock, east U.S. attorney John Wall said that during an interview conducted by two FBI agents last Dec. 7, Spock said, "It is my intention to hinder the attempts of the United States to prosecute the war."

Wall, in his two-hour-long opening statement to the 12 member all-male U.S. district court jury on the trial's second day, said the interview was conducted in Spock's New York apartment two days after a demonstration at a New York city armed forces induction centre.

The indictment said the conspiracy called for a nationwide program of draft resistance, including the interruptions of inductions at draft centres, telling draft resisters how to avoid induction and helping them surrender their draft or classification cards.

Maximum penalty upon conviction is five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

B.C.'s Superport Will Utilize More Than Coal

British Columbia is confident the superport at Roberts Bank will grow far beyond the stage designed to handle coal shipments to Japan starting in 1970, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

He would make no direct comment on a statement by Victoria business consultant Edward Chisholm concerning the involvement of Kaiser Corporation in the superport project.

However, as chairman of the B.C. Harbours Board, Mr. Bonner reiterated that relations between the provincial government and Ottawa on the project were "first class" and negotiations for completion of the first phase by 1970 were going ahead as planned.

OTHER INTERESTS

"I foresee no long-range difficulty at all," he said. "The immediate problem is the coal port. But the balance of the proposed port development arises from expressions of interest apart from coal."

"I'm confident that within the next five years we will be able to see the outline of the complete port development."

The provincial government, which is seeking a 50-50 partnership with the federal government in planning and operating the port, has expressed concern in the past that the facility, if left entirely to the National Harbours Board, might not become a fully comprehensive bulk-loading facility.

BUILT IN U.S.?

Mr. Chisholm said a superport such as proposed for Roberts Bank would mean more than $2.5 billion to Canada.

"If the ball is fumbled as a result of political wrangling, the port would be built in the U.S.," he said. "It would be a terrific loss for Canada."

He suggested Everett, Wash., as a possible site.

BLEAK OMEN

The fact that the announcement about Kaiser Steel's involvement in the super port project was announced by the company and not the federal government was interpreted as a bleak omen by Mr. Chisholm.

"I interpret it that Ottawa has issued leases for land below low water mark to allow the building of piers. The company will have to go to the province to get access rights through provincial government property between low water and high water."

OTTAWA SIT BACK

"This is where the fight will come between the company and the provincial government."

"Ottawa will sit back and say, 'Go ahead and fight the B.C. government. It's no concern of ours.'"

Meanwhile, Kaiser has assured a Japanese steel industry consortium that the superport will be built for the export of $850,000,000 worth of B.C. coal.

PROOF FURNISHED

A statement from the company's California head office in Oakland, said "We are furnishing proof today (Tuesday) from appropriate Canadian government authorities to the Japanese indicating that the Roberts Bank port will be built on schedule."

Under terms of the contract signed January 31, Kaiser was to furnish proof by Tuesday that it could live up to its commitments.

The company declined to specify what the evidence was, but said it felt it had the "necessary assurance" from Ottawa that the port would be built.

Canadian Climbers Just Fine

LIMA (Reuters) — Reports reaching here Tuesday said three Canadian climbers hoping to scale the north peak of Peru's highest mountain were never in danger.

The climbers, Peter Fuhrmann of Banff, Alta., Hans Schwarz of Jasper, Alta., and Hugh Considine, a Calgary lawyer, explained they were delayed while trying to scale the north peak of Mount Huascarán, the reports said.

When they failed to do so, they proceeded to climb the southern peak of the 22,000-foot mountain, 250 miles north of Lima. This delayed them by five days.

The three now are hoping to make another attempt to scale the northern peak, the reports said.

Initial reports said the Canadians went up the mountain to retrieve the body of Dominique Laprince of France, killed in an accident two years ago.

Swirls, Steps And Big Beat

It was a day for high-stepping youth and bright swirling color, as brass bands Monday gave the beat and kettle drums replied all the way down Douglas from Mayfair to Humboldt.

The sun mostly stayed hidden, but Greater Victoria's three-hour Victoria Day spectacle bedazzled the solid rows of spectators seated on curbsides, blankets, patio chairs and rooftops along the two-mile route.

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes, making one of their last public appearances before he retires from office, led the parade, waving regally from a white convertible.

They were followed by contingents from the Royal Canadian Navy and fast-paced green-coated infantrymen of the Queen's Own Rifles.

Pleading the younger watchers were army jeeps, tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Next came youthful cadets, arms swinging shoulder high, paces carefully measured, proudly wearing their navy blue, air force blue and army khaki.

As the skirts of the cadet bagpipes faded up the street, Victoria's Mayor Hugh Stephen, Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis and other digni-ties were seen. Then came the full exuberance and color of youth on parade.

There were probably more high school bands visiting Monday from the United States than in any other parade in Victoria's memory.

Led by leggy majorettes in brief, flashy dresses, the pipers, drummers, trumpeters and trombone players stepped out to a symphonic beat.

In black, gold, scarlet and green they danced like pined pines, leading majorette contingents in satin dress and high boots—some strutting, others adding an occasional hop to keep up with their longer-legged leaders.

The floats, covered with paper roses and swishing with aluminum fringes, glided majestically along, generally surrounded by batches of clowns tossing candy to scrambling youngsters.

Blue eyes flashing, dark hair set off to perfection by her regal robes, Pam Gillan, newly-crowned Miss Victoria, and her two princesses rode the Victoria float.

The crown was set on Miss Gillan's head less than 24 hours before by Mayor Stephen while 3,000 people gathered under umbrellas in a steady drizzle to watch the coronation ceremonies at the Legislative Buildings.

How many young girls envied Pam Gillan, her crown and her title Monday?

Another Firm Moves

Another automotive sales company is joining the exodus from downtown Victoria to outer Douglas street, a meeting of Saanich council was told Monday night.

Brian Holley Motors Ltd. will move from its Broughton Street location at the end of this week, to Douglas Street site just north of Cloverdale. It will be the second automotive dealer this year to move onto north Douglas Street.

In other business council: ● Gave first three readings to a zoning amendment that will allow expansion by Claremont Poultry Ltd. of its egg grading operation.

● Accepted the only bid received for asphalt sealcoating of municipal roads, by Victoria Paving Co.

● Accepted the only tender from Inland Crane of $1,210 for purchase and removal of a house on Simon Road to make way for the extension of McKenzie Avenue.

School trustees of the capital region want to know why B.C. School Trustees' Association president Frank Beinder apparently changed his mind and became a supporter of the government's new education legislation.

The four boards (including Gulf Islands) will seek an answer from Mr. Beinder himself when the associations' executive meets in Victoria this Saturday.

Mr. Beinder was initially critical of Bill 86, which amended the Public Schools Act last winter. It radically changed the education finance formula for school boards. Recently Mr. Beinder has issued statements defending the government. Last week in Parksville he criticized "verbal rioters and destroyers running amok in our school system."

Two small, furry kittens were taken from their mother, Monday, put into a paper bag and tossed over the fence in Royal Athletic Park.

It's the kind of thing that happens quite often in and around Victoria, according to Mrs. Eileen Graham of the Cat's Protection League.

"People don't want to go to the expense of having a mother cat spayed, and they won't care for the kittens, or find homes for them," she said. "They wind up abandoned."

The kittens abandoned Monday were lucky. Someone heard their cries and they ended up □ An attempt to restrict the number of unlicensed cars on private property in Saanich, while allowing mechanical hobbyists to work on vehicles, was referred back to public works committee by Saanich council Monday night.

The proposed amendment to the zoning bylaws would have restricted cars on residential property to one.

Ald. Edith Gunning noted that many young people work on cars as a hobby, and the council would not want to restrict them.

But, she added, the bylaw could allow anyone to leave a broken-down old truck on their lot.

□ Oak Bay residents will continue to have the right to build boats over 16 feet long at their homes, the municipal council decided Tuesday night.

A zoning amendment bylaw was adopted after Ald. Ian Horne amended it to remove the passages which would have prohibited home-owners building more than 16 feet long on their property, and from storing cars, trailers, boats, camping trailers or camper bodies outside of garages.

Red Cross House collected 203 units of blood at its clinic Tuesday. It will hold additional clinics from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. today at Claremont senior high school and at the Institute of Adult Studies.

Paperwork Stuns Taxpayers

By A. H. MURPHY

Busiest spots in City Hall Tuesday were the cashier's desks where taxpayers flocked in large numbers to prepay their 1968 taxes.

But not without some confusion.

Officials said the new tax statements, made mandatory in British Columbia this year by the provincial department of municipal affairs, made a lot of citizens unhappy.

NOT SPECIFIED

People complained that the new bill did not specify either the schools or general mill rates, nor did it record the taxable assessment. Furthermore, taxpayers said, the method of computing taxes seemed unnecessarily involved and difficult to understand.

In addition and to complicate things further, the due date for taxes in Victoria was moved forward this year by one month.

Taxes are now due on June 30 (June 28 actually, because of the holiday weekend) instead of July 30 as in previous years.

SAVE CITY BORROWING

City Treasurer James Bramley said the earlier date would obviate the necessity of borrowing for that month and save the city about $30,000. The earlier date was authorized by city council late last year.

If taxes are not paid on the due date a penalty of 5 per cent is added. Another 5 per cent is added on Dec. 30 in the event of default.

The new tax bill computes school tax and municipal tax separately with ample provision on the form for deducting the amount of the provincial home-owner grant.

Principal objection came from citizens who said that the taxpayer was entirely dependent on city officials and City Hall in reckoning the amount of tax, inasmuch as the mill rate and the taxable assessment were not specified.

Mr. Bramley agreed that this was true, although he said he believed ratepayers should come (information, even if it was not to City Hall equipped with such specifically set out on the bill.

Socred Stands —Alone

Esquimalt-Saanich Social Crediters Tuesday night haltingly nominated a candidate for the June 25 general election.

Their standard-bearer will be Roy Overton, a 23-year-old carpenter, who was chosen at a nominating convention at Mount View high school.

"Yes, reluctantly I accept," he said in accepting the nomination after the chairman had to repeatedly call for names. "I came down this evening, determined that someone would be nominated, even if it were myself."

Mr. Overton will be campaigning against Progressive Conservative incumbent George Chatterton, David Anderson of the Liberals and Donald Johannessen of the NDP.

"Win or lose, he is standing for a principle," said John Tisdale, Social Credit member of the legislature for Saanich and The Islands. "Anyone who does that, brings sincerity and honesty into the political world."

Herbert Bruch, the MLA for Esquimalt, told the Victoria Social Crediters who last week decided not to send a nominee into the federal campaign to have another look at their decision.

"People across Canada have been looking here for an example," added Mr. Bruch. Mr. Overton told members of the constituency association there were about 25 present—and the guests that Social Credit had to be heard.

"If no one will stand, I will do it," he said.

Lonely Tars Coming

Two sister ships of the Royal Navy will arrive at Esquimalt Thursday for a week's visit, and on board them will be 890 lonely officers and men.

Few of the crew of the missile-armed destroyers Fife and Glamorgan have friends in Victoria, and the navy has urged residents to entertain one or several of the visiting British sailors with lunch, dinner, drives, fishing trips, or other hospitality.

Arrangements can be made through Lieut. Robin Clark at 382-4211, local 223 or 238.

Both ships will hold open house at HMC Dockyard from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Sunset Parade

A sunset ceremony by the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps of Victoria will add color to the Inner Harbor scene on the eve of the Swiftsure Race.

About 150 cadets will take part in the ceremony, which will be presented on the front lawn of the Parliament Buildings at 8:30 p.m. May 31.

Vancouver to Victoria, Nanaimo

Hovercraft Service Gets First Licence

Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. of Vancouver has been granted the first licence for operation of a regular passenger-carrying hovercraft service in Canada.

Licensing of the service, which will involve runs between Vancouver and Victoria and Nanaimo, was announced Tuesday by the federal transport department.

The company, which previously announced it expected to begin operations 60 days after approval of the licence, is planning six daily Vancouver-Victoria runs and seven daily Vancouver-Nanaimo runs.

JOURNEY TIMES

The Vancouver-Nanaimo run will take 53 minutes as opposed to the ferry's 110 minutes, and the Vancouver-Victoria run will be 123 minutes, instead of the ferry's 100 minutes for a shorter trip.

The craft will land in either Victoria's Inner Harbor or at Oak Bay Marina.

The marina would provide sheltered waters and a shorter operating time, but would first have to be assured of Pacific Hovercraft's financial stability and receive approval from Oak Bay Council.

LONG SILENT

Bob Wright, operator of the marinas, said the company had not spoken with him since before the hearings five months ago.

Pacific Hovercraft has been training drivers, mechanics and supporting staff since last fall.

Design of its terminals was to have been completed by spring.

EXPO VEHICLE

The company is planning to purchase the British-built SRN6 vehicle used at Expo last year. It carries 36 passengers and can reach 60 miles an hour.

It is also hoping to purchase two new SRN6 craft at $40,000 each.

Suggested fare from Vancouver to Victoria is $8.25 one-way or $15 return. The fare to Nanaimo may be $7 one-way or $13 return.

Normal-Class Switch Urged

Many Slow Learners 'In Wrong Category'

By BILL STAYDAL

Many learners now in special classes should be returned to the educational mainstream, says a report submitted Tuesday to the Greater Victoria school board.

It suggests some children have been wrongly lumped in classes for the educable mentally retarded because of "staff and administrative pressures, and expediency."

Of the 272 children now in 17 slow learner classes, only one in three should remain, says the report by E. G. Calbeck, newly-appointed co-ordinator of special educational services.

NORMAL CLASS

Mr. Calbeck, head of the school district's recently-expanded special education division, said in an interview many children with learning problems can perform better in a normal class and aided by remedial teachers.

The school board has not studied the report, and took no action Tuesday.

Last fall the division began an assessment of every child now in classes for educable retarded (EMR). Mr. Calbeck said in his report.

EMR GROUP

"In the case of children recommended for EMR classes there are often times pressures exerted by teachers and principals to assign pupils to special classes on the basis of low achievement and/or behavioral problems," he said.

"It must be stated in honesty that the identification of children who are true trainable mentally retarded or educable mentally retarded is difficult.

"Such factors as cultural deprivation, family neglect or family relationships, and sometimes inexperience cause teachers and principals to suspect low mental ability resulting in low school achievement."

The children were interviewed individually by Dr. Giuseppe Multari, the school district's psychologist. Dr. Multari reported:

"Results showed that mental capacity had not always been the criterion for placement in EMR classes. Staff and administrative pressures, and expediency had resulted in some transfers to these classes."

GREAT CARE

Dr. Multari recommended periodic re-assessment of children in special classes.

He also urged "great care" in selection of teachers of special classes.

Dr. Multari said: "Empathy, dedication and knowledge of special class educational techniques should not only be assets but essential requisites for any teacher of special classes."

ONLY 97

Of the 272 in EMR classes, the report suggests that only 97 remain.

Seventeen should return to regular classrooms without any extra help.

A total of 105 should go to regular classes, supported by special learning assistance classes, says the report.

Pleasant Surprise

Customer's Bite Not Chewable

An Ottawa woman bit off more than she could chew Monday night at the Oak Bay Marina Restaurant.

Mrs. James Hackett was visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hackett, 775 Daffodil, when she found a pearl in an order of fried oysters.

"It's a tear-shaped and about the size of a pea," said Mrs. Hackett.

"I've heard of things like this happening," she said, but it's still very hard to believe."

She said she would probably have it set in a ring or pendant to save as a souvenir of the occasion. Cooking usually spoils pearls.

A spokesman said a pearl was found in an oyster there soon after the restaurant opened.

The restaurant gets its oysters from Sooke's Coast Shellfish company.

Hospital Money—Where From?

Pay Push Putting B.C. Over Barrel

By JOHN MATTERS

Wage increases now being considered by the employees of British Columbia's public hospitals indicate the provincial government may have to scratch to find money for capital programs, including the new facilities that are badly needed in such places as Victoria.

That hypothesis emerged Tuesday, after it was learned that registered nurses have been awarded salary increases ranging from 21.8 to 27.4 per cent and another settlement proposal, this one confidential, would give other hospital workers an increase of about 12 per cent.

ENOUGH FOR 61

Adding those increases to a 1967 wage and salary bill of $80,000,000, hospital authorities were wondering: will the $125,000,000 which the Legislature voted for the maintenance and expansion of this province's 61 public hospitals be enough to go around?

Last year, the taxpayers of B.C. spent $113,000,000 on the care of sick people in hospitals. That figure includes about $7,000,000 in grants toward new construction.

HOPE STILL AFLOAT

During the year, there were 3,000,000 days of patient care in B.C., a task that required a public expenditure of just over $25 for every day every patient spent in hospital.

The sudden squeeze which could be exerted on hospital expenditures as a result of salary negotiations does not torpedo hopes for a fast completion of the huge hospital construction programs proposed in Fraser-Burrard (Vancouver) and Victoria regional hospital districts.

While the government will contribute about 40 per cent of the costs, it does not have to hand the money over until construction is completed — and that is two or three years away, at least.

LABORATORY AXED?

However, such projects at Royal Jubilee Hospital's laboratory extension, now before BCHIS for final approval, could become casualties.

Members of the Registered Nurses Association of B.C. will vote on the conciliation board award during next week. The B.C. Hospitals Association has accepted the proposal.

Scales for general duty nurses would range from $450 a month to $562.50 from Jan. 1 to June 30, and from $475 to $538.75 from July 1 to June 30, 1969. Starting rates now are $390 to $466.

FIVE WEEKS LEAVE

The board recommended one more pay increment of five per cent on the 1967 base scale, a differential of $1 for each afternoon and night shift and five weeks' vacation after 20 years service.

Under the present contract, no shift differential is paid and the vacation schedule is four weeks after one year's service. The Hospital Employees Union, which represents lay employees in most public hospitals, is understood to be presenting to its members a proposal for increases of nine and seven per cent over two years.

In centres outside of Vancouver, it is believed to be proposing an additional $10 a month to bring those employees closer to the Lower Mainland scales.

Maple Leaf Foe to Carry Independent Socred Flag

George Burnham, the 77-year-old foe of Canada's maple leaf flag, announced Tuesday he will be an independent Social Credit candidate in Victoria riding for the June 25 general election.

Mr. Burnham, who lives at 620 Cook, has a 12-point platform which includes restoration of the Red Ensign as Canada's national flag, repeal of the armed forces unification, registration for all workers with pensions for those who are found to be unemployed, and all students over 18 to spend half their time in "defense of Canada training."

He also wants revival of Canada's merchant marine, reopening of West Coast shipyards on a cost-plus basis of operation, full citizenship rights for Indians and Eskimos, all housing to be provided through provincial and municipal governments, industries to report at intervals to government on profits, cost of living to be reduced to the level of the 1940s.

Pensions for veterans should be pegged to a $2,000-a-year minimum, single, and $3,500 for those who are married and, Mr. Burnham said, he stands for preservation of Canada as a Christian land. He added: "God Save the Queen."

Mr. Burnham said he was running as an independent Social Credit because none of the other political parties was doing anything about the new flag.

Last week, the Victoria Social Credit constituency association decided it would not contest the election.

Picture Collector Laments Public's Art Taste

By EILEEN LEAROLD

A man who laments the general public's poor art taste, claims that most people buy pictures with the regrettable motivation of sentimentality.

Joe Egoyan is a man who should know. A former exhibitor, artist, dealer in art and one-time owner of galleries in Cairo and Alexandria, he owns Ego Interiors in Victoria.

"I do not sell paintings anymore (for reasons I will mention later) so I can afford to speak up as a man who has nothing to win or lose."

"The public is not interested in good art. Not only do they not buy it, they don't even go to the shows."

What does the general public like?

Well on the sentimental side he says they like the little boy or little girl with big eyes. And plastic flower groups with near-photographic reproduction.

On the memory-souvenir side they like scenes of Paris or Venice, mountain scenes with animals, sunsets at sea and French 18th century court scenes.

"I call that supermarket art. It's mass produced, but it is not necessarily cheap. It often comes with heavy gold frames. You can pay a lot for those frames."

"Even with original paintings that are simply pictures that look exactly like real life, one cannot say the work has anything to do with creative ability. Let us say it took the artist two years to paint. It could still be a bad painting. But it will cost a lot of money because of the time spent on it."

The question then is—what is good art?

"It is true that not all abstract art is good either."

"Here then is the answer. A painting should be emotional and yet not sentimental. I mean there should be impact from the forms and textures and colors. It should be moving."

"One way to judge is for the viewer to get away from the subject. I am not joking, but one way is to turn it upside down."

"When you have it upside down, ask yourself if it still has beautiful form and color and texture. The subject is now no longer a distraction, which means you can look at the painting objectively instead of subjectively."

"If 10 people were painting the same subject, which one will do best? If it's the subject that is so important, then they should all look alike. If it's time spent on a painting that's so vital, then we could all spend more time. If its realism, why not copy a photograph?"

So it can't be realism, or sentiment or amount of time taken in painting that is a proper evaluation, says Mr. Egoyan.

Learning what to buy is like learning a language. You hear it and use it. There aren't set rules about learning language, but one way is to get to that country.

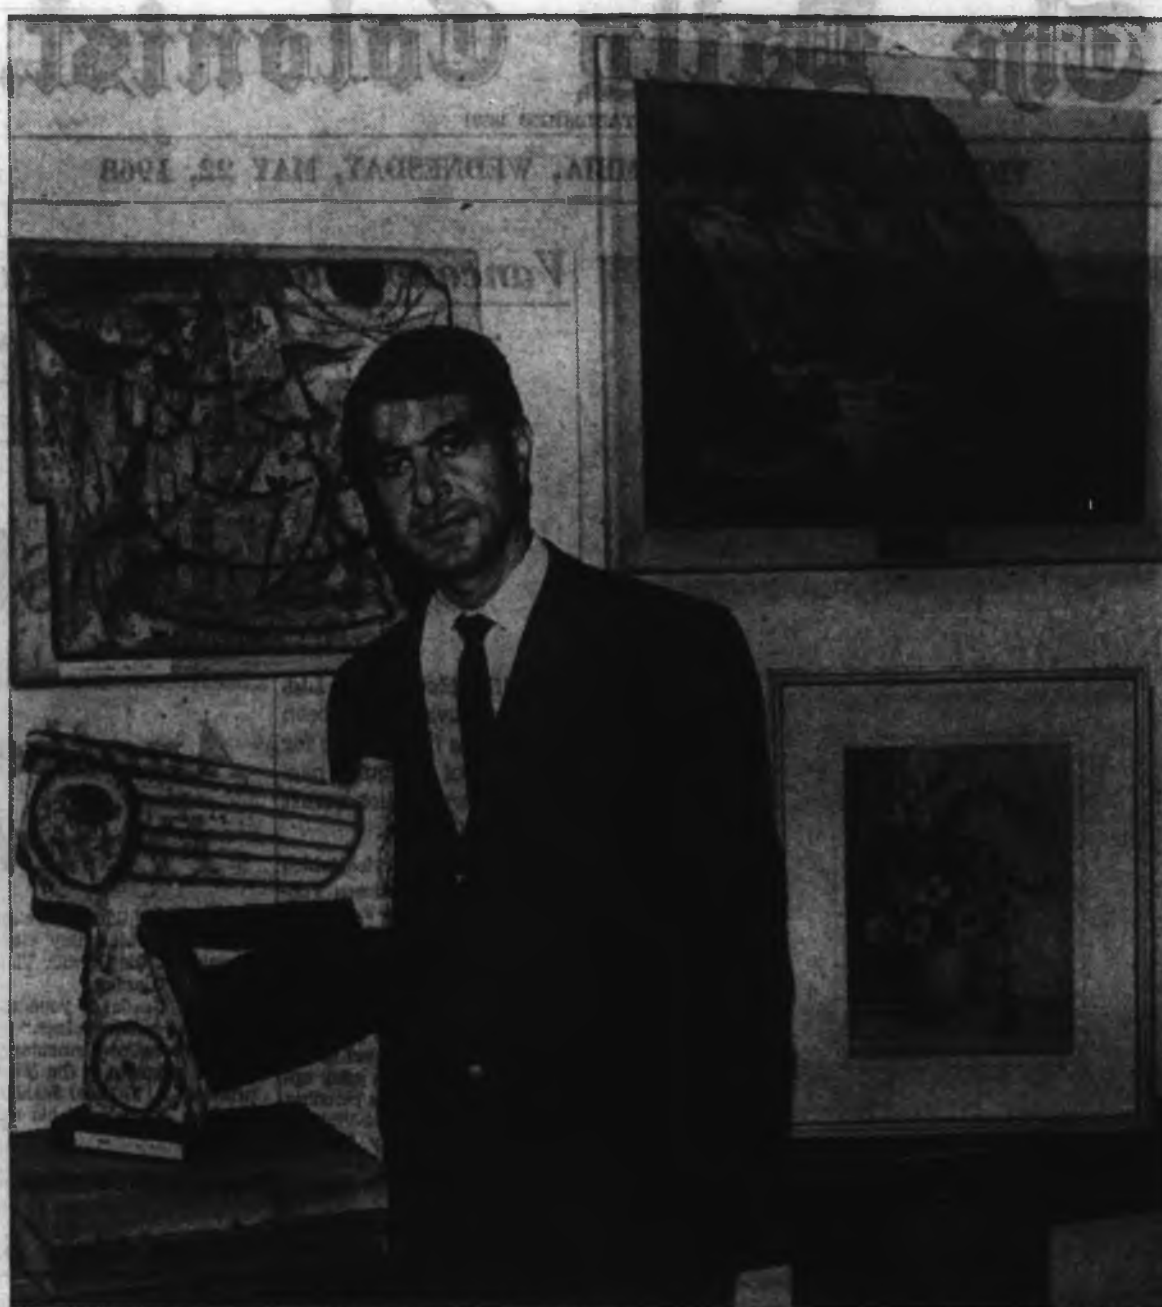

"For example, just because we don't understand abstract art, we should not say 'it's gibberish and has no meaning.' It would be the same as saying Congolese is gibberish. What we really mean is we do not understand it."

"Simply to say 'abstract art is bad' shows ignorance. It would be better to say nothing."

Mr. Egoyan said one point was that money had no relationship to aesthetic values, and that everyone could own some good art.

"It is pitiful," he said, "to see the bad pictures in private homes here."

"One can assemble a very good little original art collection at reasonable prices by getting out to the galleries in

Victoria where contemporary art is shown. There are not just oils to buy, but etchings, graphic prints—such as monographs, which are originals.

"It's the same with pottery. People could throw out the toadstools, madonnas and shepherds that are ground out by the thousands and buy some of the beautiful pieces made locally."

"Art is a language and it will grow on people as they become familiar with it. It's probably safe to say that no one appreciates good art right away. It is a slow process of growth."

Mayor Stephen Crowns Miss Victoria

Highlight of Pam Gillan's young career came Sunday afternoon when she was officially crowned Miss Victoria for 1968 by Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen during coronation ceremonies at the Leg-

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I noted somewhat cryptic message in your column today which I suspect was intended for someone who had inquired about computer type mate-matching. May I offer a few words of advice to those who might be considering such a thing—either for a lark or in a serious vein?

I fell for the idea in a weak and foolish moment and I have been kicking myself ever since. All the Computer Matcher did for me was take my money (no small fee) and every month after that (for one year) I received a card (from a computer) saying, "Sorry — nothing yet — maybe next month we will find the one we are looking for."

Unfortunately, there are a great many lonely people in the world who are willing to try anything on the slim chance that they will find someone who will release them from their prison of solitude.

This machine mate-finding gimmick is a con game and I hope it will soon be stopped by law. — ONCE A SUCKER.

Dear Sucker: Barnum was right. There's one born every minute, and I'd like to add — two to take him. Thanks for the non-testimonial.

Odd Odors

Dear Ann Landers: I know you believe in psychiatry — and I believe in it, too. But it is not the answer to everything. On occasion you have been big enough to admit when you have been wrong. I hope, for the sake of your millions of readers, you will not hesitate to do so again.

Recently you published a letter from a teen-ager whose mother imagined she smelled odd odors. At first she thought the odor was coming from the plastic — including the telephone. A week later she decided the odor was coming from the walls, so they moved. Within a week she realized the same odor had followed her to the new home. You suggested that the woman get psychiatric help.

If you had checked out that letter with some of your Harvard Medical School consultants they would have told you imaginary odors can be a symptom of brain tumor. You should have advised the woman to see a physician for a medical examination. Please tell her to do so now. — OTTAWA READER.

Dear Reader: You are correct and I thank you for calling this to my attention. Many physicians have written to tell me, as you did, that I was wrong. My apologies for the cropper and my thanks to all who wrote.

Driven Buggy

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl with a mother who is driving me buggy. I wake up in the morning hearing her voice. She yells from morning till night.

Today it went like this: You are going to give me a nervous breakdown yet. Clean up your room or I'm going to throw all the junk into the garbage can. Stand up straight, your posture is terrible. Pull down your dress. Get off the phone. Wash your neck. Hang up your coat. Turn down the music. Cut your hair — bla bla bla. — What advice do you have for me Ann? I think I'm the one who is going to have the nervous breakdown. — PICKED ON TEEN.

Dear Teen: My advice to you is pick up your junk, stand up straight, pull down your dress, get off the phone, wash your neck, hang up your coat, turn down the music and cut your hair.

Ontario Legislator Wants Girls Paid

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario schoolgirls should be paid by the province to take cooking courses during their summer holidays, says a Liberal member of the Legislature.

Eddie Sargent (Grey-Bruce) made the suggestion during debate on the labor department estimates.

Ruled out of order, he protested: "This is very serious. Girls are going out in life today not even able to boil an egg."

District Director Reports on Nurses

Miss Elizabeth Riddell, district director, reported at the board meeting of Victoria Order of Nurses in Spencerhouse that the nurses had made 2,099 visits during April and 40 of these were night calls.

She was interviewed by a reporter from one of the Montreal newspapers while attending the meeting. In this interview she stressed that one of the important duties of the VON was rehabilitation nursing and health counselling of the older retired persons to prevent illness.

Mrs. K. Thomson, consultant physiotherapist, made 14 visits to assess patients. Visits are made to the Gorge Road Hospital to see patients referred for follow-up visits and to arrange for equipment needed to assist them with exercises. Mr. Victor Price reported the cars had travelled 5,342 miles during the past month.

Mrs. C. C. Simpson, president, gave a report on the highlights of the annual meeting of Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada in Montreal which she attended.

Dairy foods go with good living

Any dessert worth serving deserves the special goodness of real whipped cream. There's just no substitute for its smooth lightness and natural flavor.

A good buy tool Whipping cream doubles in volume. That means a half pint of cream whips up into 2½ cups. Chill the bowl and beaters well; whip rapidly. Whipped cream can be kept handy in the freezer for instant use. After whipping, sweeten and flavor as desired then freeze individual portions on a cookie sheet. Later transfer them to a freezer bag. When needed they'll thaw quickly atop desserts.

Add elegance to packaged foods with real whipped cream. A cooked vanilla pudding mix becomes a dreamy custard sauce when you fold a cup of whipped cream into the chilled pudding. Perfect for filling delicate puff shells or building pretty fruit trifles.

For a light lemon dessert try this breeze-easy pie.

1 9-inch crumb crust
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons lemon rind
½ cup lemon juice
½ pint whipping cream
Combine eggs and sugar in double boiler; beat until thick and light. Add lemon rind and juice. Cook over hot water stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and cool. Whip cream; fold into lemon mixture. Turn into prepared pie shell; chill.

Bottle Broken Over Son

A Victoria man who smashed a beer bottle on the head of his seven-year-old son pleaded guilty Tuesday in Central Magistrate's Court to assaulting his son, causing him bodily harm.

Gerald Davis of 519 Craigflower was remanded to today for sentence. He was convicted March 15 of attempted suicide and was placed on a two-year bond, court was told.

Prosecutor John MacIntyre said the March charge followed an incident where Davis held police at bay with a loaded rifle.

"He is badly in need of psychiatric treatment, but he refuses to admit the need for it," Mr. MacIntyre said.

Constable Robert Madison said Davis struck his son over the head Sunday afternoon with sufficient force to break the beer bottle. The boy was treated at hospital and released.

The complexion immediately reflects the rewarding benefits as the cleanser is smoothed over the skin. Dry, ageing lines are eased and the skin becomes clear and rosy endowed with a radiant bloom. Jelvyn cleansing milk is the perfect cleanser for all skin types.

Driver Pinned In Major Holiday Crash

A 21-year-old motorist was pinned for nearly an hour in the wreckage of his car after it struck a light standard Monday morning at Rose near Topaz.

Darryl McDougall of Work Point Barracks is in a fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering a broken left leg and lacerations.

Firemen from Victoria and Saanich combined with cutting equipment to free the motorist who was given a sedative by Dr. H. L. McNiven when he was being removed.

CAB SPUN OUT

A passenger, Brenda Ratay, 18, of 1741 Newton, is in fairly good condition in the same hospital with a shoulder injury and lacerations.

City police said the accident occurred as McDougall drove north on Rose at 8:04 a.m. His car spun out and its left side struck the standard, wrecking the car and knocking the standard off its mountings.

It was a busy long weekend for city policemen, who attended 45 accidents. Brian Higgins, 21, of 255 Glenairie, is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering internal injuries received Saturday night when his car struck an oak tree at Superior and Rupert.

SUFFER CUTS

In other city accidents George Clark, 3016 Craigowan, and Janis Crossan, 1253 Willmington, suffered cuts when their cars collided Sunday afternoon at Blanshard and Broughton; Mrs. Anna Jancowicz, 3200 Service, suffered head cuts when her husband's car collided with a parked car on Gorge Sunday. All were treated at hospital and released.

Poor March Comes Alive

From UPI

The Poor People's March came alive Tuesday as demonstrators carried their chant of "Soul Power" twice to the halls of U.S. Congress and their leadership announced plans for a mass march in Washington June 19.

Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded the late Martin Luther King as chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the march would draw thousands of persons "morally outraged" by poverty in a wealthy America.

The march was originally scheduled for May 30, Memorial Day. The date was changed because leaders said they needed more time to prepare and because of an expected shortage of transportation during the Memorial Day holiday.

LONG DAY

During a long day of peaceful protests and emotional demands for more jobs, housing and welfare assistance, delegations from the prefabricated Resurrection City at the foot of Lincoln Memorial attended anti-poverty hearings in the House and Senate and returned to sit in the House visitors' gallery.

Just as Speaker John McCormack called for an adjournment vote at the end of the day, a young white man seated on the fringe of the predominantly Negro group of 40 marchers in the gallery rose and shouted, "Not till June 27!"

POOR DECLINE

Meanwhile, the social security administration in Washington reported the number of Americans it regards as poor declined by more than 9,000,000 between 1959 and 1966.

In a report, Mike Orshansky of the administration's office of research and statistics said the number of persons living in poverty fell from 38,900,000 in 1959 to 29,700,000 in 1966.

● About 200 students, protesting suspension of their leader Mark Rudd, took over a Columbia University campus building in New York, fought fellow students and chanted "we shall not be moved" by police. Grayson Kirk, Columbia president, told the rebels to get out or be hauled out. They didn't get out.

● New York police smashed barricades at the Brooklyn College registrar's office and carried away more than 40 demonstrators who had occupied the office since Monday demanding more Negro students, teachers and courses.

● The board of governors of Chicago's Roosevelt University alumni association supported the Five-year-old twins Tommy and Theresa Lowry, 63 Boyd Street, wanted to take uncle Jack to Victoria parade Monday, but laid down stiff ground rules: his bushy beard of 18 months had to go. City employee Jack Lowry, 225 Oswego, agreed with conditions and—quick as wink—Tommy and Theresa grabbed pair of scissors each and off came facial adornment. But not before uncle Jack suffered more than slightly as pair of amateur barbers chopped through underbrush as if they were trimming hedge.—(Jim Ryan)

TV Debate 'On'

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for the CBC and CTV television networks announced Tuesday they have reached an agreement on co-producing a televised debate among Canada's political leaders.

A brief announcement by J. P. Gilmore, a CBC vice-president, and CTV President Murray Chermov gave no details but indicated a program format will be worked out today.

The announcement did not say whether New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas will appear on the program, but Monday the CBC proposed that Douglas be included.

The storm over the proposed debate has been going on for a week. Last Friday talks between Liberal and Conservative officials and CTV broke down. CTV had proposed a program which excluded Douglas.

SIX ATTENDED
Tuesday's meeting was attended by Chermov and new director Charles Templeton for CTV, and Marce Munro, John Kerr, Peter Campbell and Laurent Hardy for the CBC.

Meanwhile, the CTV network disclosed its schedule of free-time political broadcasts.

The Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats each receive two 30-minute periods, one on a Sunday afternoon and one on a Monday night.

In addition the three parties will share 30 minutes starting at 10:30 p.m. Monday, June 10, with the party leaders appearing in separate portions.

The first in the series was Monday night when Prime Minister Trudeau was interviewed by a panel of journalists.

Few Economic Promises

Trudeau Aims at Poor In Toryland Campaign

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau town-hopped through surging crowds in Conservative country Tuesday promising in one stopover to direct his campaign financial pledges to the poor.

He told a Stratford street-corner audience on his southwestern Ontario swing the Liberal party is not interested in promising great expenditures that would result in tax increases.

The Liberal leader said this is why his party is making so few economic promises. Any promises made would be for the benefit of poor regions where per capita income is a half to two-thirds the national average.

KEEPS CLOSE

Trudeau kept close to the fiscal responsibility theme as he moved by motorcade through the towns of Perth and Huron ridings, held by Conservatives in the last Parliament.

He climaxed his day of sunny mainstreeming and off-the-cuff open-air talks with a formal speech to the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce.

His arrival by plane from Ottawa at London airport set the tone for the day. He was caught in a crush of squealing teenagers and older people who sought autographs and handshakes. A few cheerleaders broke ranks to rush up and sing their songs around his neck, leaving him with lipstick on his face.

NDP FAILS
A band of New Democratic Party supporters infiltrated the crowd at the airport, but their signs failed to dampen the enthusiasm.

In the countryside, the usual mob scenes occurred after the prime minister left his open car to mount impromptu staged at downtown intersections, street corners or anywhere that was handy.

The friendly, shoving crowds that surged over the streets were composed mostly of students and elementary school children let out of school for the occasion.

One of his biggest crowds was at Clinton, site of the air force base where about 700 adults and children blocked traffic while Trudeau spoke with firefighters going off in the background.

At his side on each small-town appearance were local Liberal candidates but they took a back seat to the mercurial Trudeau, who threw flowers to the welcoming crowd at Mitchell. Usually the swingers throw flowers at him.

Trudeau advised the crowds not to expect economic miracles from government. Public works and welfare programs could be expanded, but that would mean higher taxes.

NDP Pressures Ottawa To Overhaul Housing

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said Tuesday the federal government must become directly involved in housing — including purchase of land, direct mortgage lending and help on modernizing the home building industry.

At a press conference here as he opened a four-day Northern Ontario tour, Douglas expanded on his call for a national housing agency. He said the federal role would not interfere with provincial jurisdiction.

There could be two programs if necessary, one for English-speaking Canada and one for Quebec. This would be better than no program at all, as had been shown by the Canada Pension Plan.

But the federal government had to have the power to grapple with modern problems such as housing, education and pollution which were "conspicuously beyond the capacity of provincial governments."

The federal government could counter land speculation by introducing a capital gains tax and by buying land "15 to 25 years in advance of requirement instead of allowing speculators to do this."

It could make loans directly and get into house building in co-operation with provinces and municipalities.

It could subsidize low-income housing and could work for cheaper houses by setting standards on such things as door and window sizes and by encouraging partial prefabrication.

"Certainly there is no remedy in saying people should go into apartments," Mr. Douglas said.

Campaign Roundup

Backing Hinted By Separatists

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. — The Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale, largest Quebec separatist party, has announced it is considering supporting the Liberal party in the June 25 general election. Pierre Bourgault, RIN leader, said definite word will come by Saturday.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — George Hest, former Conservative trade minister, promised Tuesday a Progressive Conservative government would sell or subsidize Newfoundland fish if elected June 25.

THETFORD MINES, Que. — Two defeated candidates for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Frontenac riding — Paul Villeneuve and Rene Cyr — have announced they will not support Andre Paul, the local party's choice for June 25. They claim there were irregularities in the nomination procedure.

SHERBROOKE, Que. — "I have chosen the French-Canadian language and culture and many of my co-citizens in the western part of the country have chosen the English-Canadian language and culture, but first of all I'm proud to be a Canadian because it is for me a guarantee of freedom," said Alexander Klady, a Canadian of Ukrainian origin, chosen as Progressive Conservative candidate in the Sherbrooke riding.

KITCHENER, Ont. — Prime Minister Trudeau indicated, diplomatically, that when it comes to women he prefers home-bred. When a voice from his audience here suggested that he and Mrs. John F. Kennedy would make a charming couple, Trudeau described her as "delightful and charming" but added that while Canada was accepting foreign investment of all kinds "women-power" was an area where "we have the best in the world."

Tory Chief's Visit Draws Demands By Angry Students

WINNIPEG (CP) — Placard-carrying students picketed the Winnipeg auditorium Tuesday night as Conservative leader Robert Stanfield kicked off his national election campaign and some of their number later engaged in a shoving match inside the building.

About 100 members of the Canadian Union of Students, holding a seminar this week at the University of Manitoba, distributed a statement asking Stanfield to voice his stand on matters of concern to students.

After the rally was under way, a group of the students who had congregated in a corner attempted to move up the centre aisle. They were blocked by Conservative workers who linked arms.

A couple attempted to push through but were pushed back before police moved in to thin out the ranks.

Among the proposals advanced by the students were requests the voting age be reduced to 18 from 21, the federal government over-see economic disparities among regions in Canada, more federal money be made available for post-secondary institutions, and the Carter commission report on taxation be implemented.

A representative group of the 250 students gathered here told a press conference earlier in the day the same challenge will be hurled at Prime Minister Trudeau when he visits Winnipeg Thursday.

The NDP is being excluded for the moment, because party leader T. C. Douglas will not be here during the seminar.

Hugh Armstrong of Ottawa, CUS president, told reporters students are facing a summer unemployment crisis "which finally lays to rest the dying myth that higher education can be self-financed."

Armstrong said students are also concerned with what he termed the reluctance of provincial governments to give students a voice in their program of studies and university administration.

Sunday Band Beat Noted for Variety

By BERT BINNY

There seems to have been a minimum of 10 bands performing here and there in Victoria Sunday afternoon.

Even by the exercise of almost superhuman agility, it would have been impossible to hear them all, but there were three at the Legislative Building, and a further three at the McPherson Playhouse and in Centennial Square.

In the latter instance, two played a concert in the Playhouse itself after which, while the audience was strolling out by the front entrance, chairs and a PA system and other equipment were hustled out the back and set up in the square.

The indoor performance was the last in a considerable series of school band concerts which started before Christmas. The bands came from Mt. Douglas high school and from Newport high school at Bellevue, Wash.

Directed by Ernie Michaux, Mt. Douglas offered a program of seven items, including Flute Royale with Jan Pearce as soloist and the item Bubbling Woodwinds, in the style of Lawrence Welk.

OFF STAGE
During the intermission, 47 Mt. Douglas musicians moved off the stage to be replaced by 73 from Newport high.

This band, conducted by Bob Bailey, had a notably animated flute and piccolo section. They asserted themselves in the opening march, Sousa's George Washington Bicentennial.

Another feature was a solo clarinetist Frank Sherman, and the whole program was highly acceptable.

Out in the square, it was the Golden Gulls band from Everett, Wash., led by conductor Winston Vitous. The 62 made an imposing total of 182 players for the afternoon in just one of several locations.

The Golden Gulls were award-winners in last year's Victoria Day parade.

Undeterred by a continuous drizzle on Sunday afternoon, they gave a program of six items which included a suite of Henry Mancini selections, Herb Alpert's Spanish Flea, and a tribute to Glenn Miller.

POPULAR WORKS
The last embraced such popular items of the early 40s as Little Brown Jug, Tuxedo Junction and American Patrol.

John Phillip Sousa was back with a repeat performance of his Bicentennial March and, in the more modern idiom, was Dave Brubeck's Take Five. All in all, it was a full and pleasant afternoon.

The play, second of six finalists in the Dominion Drama Festival this week, represents the Atlantic drama region.

It was the first time Herbert had seen how the Acadia Dramatic Society of Wolfville, N.S., treated his play.

The cast includes William Oliver, 19, of Montreal, James Costello, 19, of Boston, Mass., as the 65-year-old prison guard and Barry Carmichael, 21, of Montreal, Wendell Smith, 23, of Wolfville and John Davies, 20, of Pond Inlet, N.W.T., as convicts.

The play shows the degrading effect of prison life on a young man convicted of a petty crime. "The play is not about homosexuality—that's only one part. It's a play about violence," says David Haley, a mathematics professor at Acadia who advises the Dramatic Society.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT

There was a time in my gardening career when I didn't think much of the zinnia as a garden flower. I remember making quite a big sowing of them around 30 years ago, and I was bitterly disappointed when the plants came into bloom.

True, they sprang up like weeds and grew with all the enthusiasm of a Canada thistle, but the flowers were flat, artificial-looking things and the colors were harsh, with a horrible magenta shade predominating.

Things have changed since those days. The plant breeders have been busily engaged in changing the whole personality and appearance of the zinnia, and nowadays we have zinnias that look like dahlias, zinnias that look like scabiosa, others resembling marigolds, and a whole new race with big, shaggy flowers for all the world like house chrysanthemums. There are even some creeping kinds, good for hanging baskets and window boxes, and dwarf, bushy kinds for edging.

I have always had better luck with zinnias when grown from seed in their flowering position rather than from started or purchased plants, for they don't care much for transplanting. And as the zinnia is a real heat-lover, it is certainly no kindness to sow the seeds too early — the plants should be in full bloom before the seeds go into the ground.

Our modern zinnias are all descended from wild plants native to southern California and Mexico, and this gives us a clue as to their culture. They must have a warm, sunny, well-drained site, and while they will tolerate most types of soil, they have a decided preference for a sandy loam.

But while the zinnia likes a hot and dryish site, and detests having its leaves sprinkled with cold water, it is most certainly not immune to drought. In fact, dryness at the deep root level is an important contributing factor leading to mildew, its most common disease.

For this reason, when I am planting zinnia seeds, I like to make a special planting station for each seed, taking out a hole with the hand trowel about six inches deep. A handful of soggy wet peat moss is placed in the bottom of the hole, the soil filled in, and a single seed is sown half an inch deep. The reserve of moisture stored in the sponge-like peat should keep the deep roots happy pretty well throughout the summer.

Another useful trick in starting zinnia seeds is to cover each sown seed with a jam jar. This is not so much for protection as to conserve moisture around the seed in the soil, for the surface soil in such a sun-baked site tends to dry out very rapidly. The jam jar should come off as soon as the seedlings emerge.

Regarding varieties, I think my favorite is State Fair, probably the best of the dahlia-flowered kinds. This one makes a plant 2½ feet tall, bearing huge blooms as much as seven inches across, mostly in shades of red, orange, yellow and cream. State Fair is a tetraploid hybrid, with all the vigor this implies, and while not immune to mildew, they have considerable resistance to this troublesome fungus infection.

Treasure Island is a good cactus-flowered kind — shaggy blooms and pointed petals in gold, scarlet, crimson and orange. Miss Universe is a cross between the dahlia-flowered and the cactus-flowered kinds, dwarfier and more branching than the parents and blooming in clear pastel shades.

Ortho Polka is a peppermint-stick zinnia with striped and flecked flowers, while Merry-Go-Round is a race of biolors in which the petals tips are of a sharply contrasting color — purple with white tips, red with gold tips, and so on. Thumbelina, Red Buttons and Gold Buttons are excellent small-flowered compact plants only six inches tall, very good for edging.

The modern zinnia makes a good cut flower, especially the shaggy kinds, although there is some tendency for the water to become smelly unless it is changed daily. Out the flowers in the heat of the afternoon when the plants are in a slightly wilted condition and plunge them up to their necks in cool water overnight. They'll be limp but thirsty when you put them in, but they'll drink their fill and come out the next morning with stiff, turgid stems and perky, sparkling blooms.

ART BUCHWALD Sees Shame for Deprived

Too Old to Subscribe

WASHINGTON — The Saturday Evening Post, which has been in trouble for some time, has a new management. One of the decisions of the new management is to cancel about 2,000,000 of the Post's 6,000,000 subscribers.

By putting their subscription list through a computer, the Saturday Evening Post circulation people intend to weed out older people, small towners, and those persons who just don't have the buying power of the young families who live in the cities and suburbs.

In this way, the Post hopes to appeal to class advertisers and also save money on printing.

The idea makes sense, but it can also cause plenty of problems.

Feneker was at his law office in Hopscotch, when he received a call from his wife. "There's a registered letter here from the Curtis Publishing Company," she said sobbing. "What does it say?" Feneker asked.

"It says they're cancelling our subscription to the Saturday Evening Post," his wife cried.

"But we've been subscribers for 25 years," Feneker said. "They mention that. They say we're too old for the magazine, and demographically we're unfit."

"There must be some mistake. I'll appeal it," Feneker said.

"The letter said the decision of the publishers is final. There isn't even a return address on the envelope," Feneker started to panic.

"Who knows about this?" "I told Mother. You were at lunch and I had to tell somebody."

"Good heavens. Call her right away and tell her not to tell a soul if this gets out we'll be ruined."

Unfortunately Feneker's mother-in-law had gone to a bridge game that afternoon and, as luck would have it, she mentioned it to her friends while she was the dummy. Before long the phones started to ring all over Hopscotch with the scandalous news.

"They seemed like such nice people," Mrs. McMurdy said when her sister told her. "I always thought something was fishy when they drove around in a 1962 Ford,"

Chet McAlligie told a friend when he heard the news.

In a week's time Feneker started to feel that his secret was out. No one came right out and said they knew the Saturday Evening Post had cancelled his subscription, but the atmosphere in the town had changed.

The bank refused him a loan on a new wing for his house. He had trouble cashing cheques in the grocery store. The gas station made up some excuse why they couldn't renew his credit card. He lost the election for the school board and there was even some talk that the bar association would look into his accreditation.

Lifelong clients took their business elsewhere. Mrs. Feneker was told she was no longer needed in the car pool.

When you're dropped by the Saturday Evening Post, you have no choice but to live a lie for the rest of your life.

At school the kids were merciless to the Feneker children.

One night Johnny Feneker came home crying, his eye black. "They said my father was a Saturday Evening Post deadbeat," he said. "Say it isn't so, Dad."

"We're going to have to move from Hopscotch," he told the family. "The disgrace is just too much to bear."

A week later, at two in the morning, the Fenekers loaded up their belongings and drove out of town. They moved to a city hundreds of miles away, and re-subscribed to the Saturday Evening Post under a different name.

But despite the fact that no one in the new town knows their terrible secret, the Fenekers still live in fear that some day somehow they will get another registered letter from the Curtis Publishing Company and they will have to move on again.

When you're dropped by the Saturday Evening Post, you have no choice but to live a lie for the rest of your life.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

No Loot, No Olivia!

LONDON (NANA) — Cannes film festival gossip has it that Olivia de Havilland refused to attend the showing of Gone With the Wind unless she was paid $25,000 for the trip from Paris. No $25,000, no Olivia she reasoned — and with some logic — that MGM had made millions and millions from the film in which she played the noble Melanie and if they wanted her to appear with the picture now, they should give her a small piece of the loot. Why not? There's enough for everyone.

Producers should be like Harry Saltzman who tore up Michael Caine's contract four times to give him a hefty boost in salary when the box office returns proved he was a winner. Harry is planning to star famed Russian defector, dancer Rudolf Nureyev, as the even more famed dance Nijinsky. Next year in Italy, Austria, Spain and France.

"To make the film in Hollywood," Saltzman explained to me, "would cost between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. In Europe it will be $7,000,000."

Harry's Battle of Britain is pegged at $8,000,000. That's a long financial way from his Ipcress File with Caine which cost less than $500,000.

Nureyev, to go back a paragraph, is living in Princess Lee Radziwill's apartment in New York during his very successful engagement at the Met with Margot Fonteyn. The Princess is in London with her family.

This is the kind of person Katharine Hepburn is. When Joe Levine wanted to buy her a Rolls-Royce in appreciation for her performance in The Lion in Winter, she refused, saying, "You have already paid me," Sophia Loren went Katie one better. When she won the Oscar for Two Women, she bought a Rolls-Royce for Joe.

Bonnie and Clyde earned its entire cost shortly before last Christmas, and that accounts for the satisfied smile on Warren Beatty's face. Warners did not expect the picture to be a great hit, so they put in Warren's contract that he receives 40 per cent of the gross after the break-even point.

Even when "Bonnie" was finished, the bosses weren't too sure of its chances and if Warren hadn't rolled up his sleeves and gone to work to sell his brain child it would have been a mediocre success, instead of a smash hit.

'Trippers' Only Take

SYDNEY HARRIS

The most fascinating paradox about the modern use of such drugs as LSD has never been mentioned by anyone, to my knowledge — and that is accessibility and relative cheapness of them, which are due to men who are the exact opposites of the people who take such drugs.

In the last few years, there have been fantastic successes in modern chemical and pharmaceutical technology. One expert in the field estimates that new compounds with potential drug use is synthesized every five minutes. We are developing such drugs far faster than we can evaluate their efficacy or their safety.

This dubious "boom" to the drug taker (who no longer need rely on the sinister and expensive heroin habit) is the result of scientists applying themselves to unlocking some of the secrets of nature — or, to put it less trivially, to the efforts of men objectively involved in penetrating reality.

The chemists and pharmacologists who (unwittingly) have made these "escape" drugs available are men who themselves are the exact opposite of the drug-takers. They are men who confront reality, wrestle with it, and extract from it some of the useful — if potentially dangerous — knowledge we can have.

It is entirely through their labors, through their tedious day-by-day grappling with abstruse scientific problems, that the drug-users have available a cheap and easy supply of flight-into-fantasy. The fantasy is made possible only by the deep extrication of these compounds from the ground of reality, just as gold is mined from the earth.

What is ironic here is that while the drug-users praise the new narcotics as the great salvation of our time, this "salvation" is not the fruit of their own labor or achievements, but wholly the product of men they despise and work they decry.

If the drug-compounders were like the drug-takers, there would be no LSD on the market — for fantasists cannot flourish in a laboratory. The drug-takers (for whom, it must be made clear, I have more pity than anger or contempt) remind me of the alienated adolescent who uses an automobile for his hostile acts against society, and yet who himself could not so much as make a spark plug. He is wholly (and quite obviously) dependent upon the invention, the ingenuity, the sweat and dedication of others to create and produce for him the automobile he can only use — and destroy — for his tortured satisfaction.

If the drug-takers want to repudiate society and reality, they have a perfect right to do so — but not to utilize the very fruits of what they reject for a trip they could never make on their own.

Alberta Fights Fires

EDMONTON (CP) — About 2,000 men with bulldozers and water bombers struggled Tuesday against forest fires in Alberta's dry brush and timber land.

The number of acres burning crept upward from 74,000 to 75,000 during the day, but fire-fighters kept the number of reported fires to 102. Nineteen were burning out of control.

Families Leave Homes As B.C. River Floods

SMITHERS, B.C. (CP) — At least four families were moved from their homes Tuesday at Houston, 40 miles east of here, as the Buck River flooded in heavy runoff after steady rain.

Crews were piling sandbags in the community, 400 miles northwest of Vancouver. The Bulkley River was at its highest level since 1964 and one road and a ferry operation in the area were closed.

At Houston, damage was estimated at $5,000 to $6,000 when muddy water from the Bulkley River flooded into a clothing and sporting goods warehouse.

Traffic was moving slowly over a bridge on Highway 16 at the east end of Houston. Approaches to the bridge were washed out Monday and crews continued to fill them against erosion.

Water was six to eight inches deep on some roads but Highway 16 was in generally good condition. A road south of Houston was closed by a bridge wash-out.

The Cedardale ferry on the Skeena river, 75 miles west of Smithers, suspended operations.

Wind gusts — which scattered sparks and endangered small communities — were expected to drop to 15 miles an hour overnight, but no rain was predicted for today.

This month's precipitation of 1.07 inches has been only about half the long-term average of 1.90 inches.

A spokesman for the provincial department of lands and forests said volunteers were assisting trained firefighters.

Two hundred volunteered in Edmonton alone. British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba sent water bombers. They were among the approximately 65 aircraft being used to check fires or carry men and equipment.

Forestry officials blamed the fires on several causes, particularly extensive brush burning by farmers. Campers' or fishermen's fires and children playing with firecrackers were believed to have started some.

At least three communities waited anxiously, fearing a change in the wind might drive the fires toward homes and buildings.

Early-Morning Blast Injures 18 in Block

EDMONTON (CP) — Eighteen persons were taken to hospital Tuesday after an explosion and fire destroyed a 53-year-old apartment block in the city's west end.

Two of them were described as in "fairly serious condition" with burns. They were identified as Fred Symeniw, 46, and Mrs. David Sullivan. The others were admitted and treated for lesser burns, cuts and smoke inhalation.

The remaining 13 residents of the two-storey frame and brick building were either at work or on holiday when the explosion occurred.

Peter Horn, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Horn of 748 Piedmont in Victoria, suffered burns to his face and both hands in the explosion.

The blast lifted the roof off the north end of the building and fire quickly spread to the rest of the structure.

NDP Captures Byelection Seat

Winner Levi

By IAN STREET

The upset victory by New Democrat Norman Levi in Tuesday's Vancouver South byelection sets the stage for what Premier Bennett has called a "long, hot summer" on the hustings with three more fierce provincial contests—one in Oak Bay—to be fought in July.

This leaves Social Credit with 32 seats in the 55-member legislature, the NDP has 16 and the Liberals four. There are three vacancies to be filled, one previously held by the NDP and two by Liberals.

Premier Bennett accepted the defeat of Socred George Wainborn in the key Lower Mainland riding philosophically, saying "well, you can't win them all," but he termed the setback for the government just a temporary one. He predicted when all four B.C. byelections are over the government will have won back the seat it lost Tuesday night, and perhaps also picked up one or two of the other seats, now held by the opposition.

Mr. Levi led the field in Vancouver South from the start and won by a comfortable margin over Mr. Wainborn, with Liberal Sandy Robertson a fairly close third.

The vote on the first complete count was Mr. Levi, NDP, 10,146; Mr. Wainborn, Social Credit, 8,215; Mr. Robertson, Liberal, 7,283; and Republican Leonard Sprackman, 43.

NDP provincial leader Robert Strachan, elated by his party's victory, said the voters of Vancouver South were speaking for the whole province where large numbers of people are "disillusioned and dissatisfied with this crumbling government."

The premier told an election rally here last week his government is fighting for its life. "He (Mr. Bennett) made it quite clear this was a vote of confidence in his government and the people of Vancouver South have told him they are unhappy and unsatisfied with the way things are going."

Mr. Strachan said the issues in the byelection, which he listed as better education, health, housing, pollution control and economic development, apply as well throughout the province.

"They claim we can only put on this type of intensive person-to-person campaign in a byelection," he said. "But we know that in a general election, because of widespread public disillusionment, we can beat the old line Socred political machine with its funds extorted from business."

Mr. Bennett retorted: "One

sparrow doesn't make a summer. He (Mr. Strachan) will revise his estimate before this long, hot summer is over."

The premier added: "But I don't take anything away from Mr. Levi. I congratulate him in what was a personal victory for him rather than a victory for his party."

The Socred and Liberal candidates, Mr. Bennett said, split the free enterprise vote,

France

Censure Drive Failing

PARIS (CP) — France choked in the grip of ever-spreading strikes Tuesday night but leftist deputies opposed to President Charles de Gaulle appeared unable to transform the social ferment into a censure vote that would bring down the government.

Debate on a censure motion began Tuesday with a determined Communist attack on de Gaulle's 10-year "regime of personal power" but quickly bogged down in side issues. Crowds of spectators deserted the galleries.

Even some opposition leaders conceded that the censure motion has little chance of getting more than 200 votes when debate ends late today or early Thursday. A total of 244 votes are needed to oust Premier Georges Pompidou and his cabinet, who carry de Gaulle's policies.

NO STOMACH

It seemed clear that at least some of the 42 centrist deputies of the Democratic and Modern Progress group had no stomach for voting with the Communists.

"We are in favor of change but not an adventure into the unknown," said Jacques Duhamel, the centrist leader.

The polite and often theoretical exchanges in the National Assembly bore scant relation at times to the extremities facing the nation. With major industries and vital public services paralyzed by strikes that have idled nearly half its 16,000,000 workers, France was experiencing its gravest domestic crisis since the Second World War.

FRANCE SICK

The independent newspaper Le Monde says in an editorial that France had again become "the sick man of Europe."

Few doubted that the crisis was a serious setback for de Gaulle's foreign, internal and economic policies.

With unemployment at 2.5 per cent of the labor force even before the strikes and the fifth national plan already slightly behind schedule, some economists said the government's economic policies will need rethinking.

Satisfaction of any substantial part of the demands of the strikers — for higher pay and

Admiral Appointed To B.C. London Post

Rear Admiral Michael Stirling, who retired from the Navy in 1966 because he didn't agree with the unification of Canada's armed forces, will become B.C.'s agent-general in London this fall.

He will take over the $17,500-a-year post Oct. 1 from Earle C. Westwood, former mayor of Nanaimo and B.C. cabinet minister, who is retiring after four years in the U.K.

The announcement was made by Premier Bennett Tuesday afternoon, but he told reporters before entering a cabinet meeting that it was a joint announcement by himself and Trade Minister Walter Skilling, who was at his side.

Mr. Westwood would be "sorely missed" in London, the premier said, adding, however, that he was pleased that the present agent-general would "now be able to live a less strenuous life after many years of arduous public service."

Mr. Westwood is 58 and his successor, Mr. Stirling, will be 53 next month.

The premier said Mr. Westwood's four-year term as agent-general was successfully devoted to expansion of B.C.'s commercial interests in Britain and Europe. He was made a freeman of the City of London in 1967.

'I AM GRATEFUL'

Mr. Bennett said: "His enthusiasm, integrity and abiding interest in both the welfare of his community and the province have been of great value. I am grateful for what he has done, both personally and on behalf of the people of B.C."

The government came under strong opposition fire during the last session when it boosted the salary for the London post from $13,100 to $17,500 plus expenses. A similar boost affects the San Francisco trade commissioner's job, currently held by Newton P. Steacy, another defeated Socred minister.

Mr. Bennett told the House the salary increases were needed to keep up with the cost of living abroad.

Mr. Westwood was elected Socred MLA for Nanaimo after serving on the city's hospital board, school board and the

Haiti Claims:

Invasion Force Crushed

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — The government of President Francois Duvalier claimed Tuesday night it had smashed a rebel invasion force in a fierce 20-minute battle near the Cap-Haitien airport on the north coast of Haiti.

Government sources said 10 of 35 invaders were killed Tuesday and the survivors fled into nearby hills ahead of pursuing government troops.

The government announced plans to fly two captured B-25 bombers to Port au Prince today. Sources said Duvalier probably would inspect them personally.

The planes were said to have landed the invasion party at Cap-Haitien Monday following a bombing attack on the capital in which one person was reported killed and several injured.

A local newspaper said Duvalier was in bed reading when bombs fell near the palace Monday.

'Confidence in Canada'

Stanfield Lists Six-Point Plan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield Tuesday night put forward a six-point program to restore confidence in basic commodities and economic strength to Canada as he officially opened his campaign here.

He told the 4,500 people crowding the civic auditorium here a government led by him would:

- Restore confidence in such basic industries as agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining and manufacturing so that new growth could take place.
- Gain increased markets for Canadian grain, paper, fish and manufactured markets.
- Strengthen regional and national economies through better marketing, storage, distribution and transportation facilities.
- Give particular attention to new technologies in developing communication systems such as hovercraft routes and commodity pipelines.
- Develop a national power grid so that large blocks of surplus power could be transferred from one region to another or to the United States.
- Improve educational and technological capacity.

CONFIDENCE KEY

Stanfield said: "Canadians who were born here — and those who have chosen to live here — have high expectations for this country. Then, what are we waiting for? Let us justify their confidence in Canada."

"Let confidence in Canada be the purpose of our campaign, and the spirit of our campaign, and the result of our campaign," he said.

SHOW-STEALER

But the show-stealer here was Marcel Faribault, self-described Conservative leader in Quebec. Faribault, former adviser to Premier Johnson of Quebec, was greeted by some hostility in the crowd of 4,500 which filled the auditorium. But he overrode it and had many cheering him.

Douglas Pledges

National Control Over Pollution

SUDBURY (CP) — A New Democratic Party government would set up a national pollution control agency involving all levels of government, NDP leader T. C. Douglas said Tuesday night.

The agency, along with provincial counterparts, would have power to police all aspects of pollution, set standards for control and, if necessary, provide grants. An NDP government would seek concurrent legislation from the provinces for the joint approach.

Douglas outlined his party's program on pollution at a joint rally of the Sudbury and Nickel Belt riding associations.

The NDP leader said about 4,000 square miles in the Sudbury area are polluted by sulphur dioxide caused by operations of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. About 200 square miles are in danger of becoming a desert.

Yet the "fouling continues unabated and the governments do virtually nothing." The responsibility for control of pollution rests with the federal government, Douglas said. Provinces share in the constitutional jurisdiction, "but sheer necessity dictates

By JEAN MacGREGOR

DUNCAN — Striking clerks won their week-old battle Tuesday when Cowichan school board surrendered to their demands and accepted a conciliation board pay award. All schools will reopen today.

Board chairman Joseph Frumento said trustee Bruce Devitt, salary committee chairman, asked the union to accept a compromise but the union representatives "insisted on the conciliation board award."

The strike by 28 board-employed office workers ended when a joint agreement was signed at a special meeting by the trustees' salary committee and representatives of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The agreement was ratified by the board later. The clerks will receive a 13.5 per cent wage increase.

Another joint meeting will be held today when a collective agreement will be signed.

Art Jones, superintendent of schools, said normal bus services will resume today.

'Two Peoples One Country'

The Progressive-Conservative party stands for "one country, one Canada with a federal system of government, one country of 'two founding peoples,' who have been joined by Canadians of other cultures," leader Robert Stanfield said Tuesday.

He was replying to a telegram sent last week by Colonist publisher Richard J. Bower which said it is "imperative you clarify stand on two-nation policy and explain what special status for Quebec would entail."

The full text of Stanfield's reply appears with in today's lead editorial on Page 4.

MILL BAY—Cowichan senior secondary school graduation night ended in a splash for one young man. Shawnigan Lake police said that about 300 young people travelled to Mill Bay, 11 miles south of Duncan Friday night and early Saturday for a house party.

Roy Haslam, 20, of Duncan passed through an RCMP roadblock and went to look for the house. He took a wrong side road, which has a dead-end, but he did not stop.

The car plunged off the end of the road and went into the sea.

Police said the vehicle finally finished up about 50 to 60 feet from the shore. There were no injuries.

Mr. Haslam's partially submerged car was hauled from the water back to dry land by a Duncan wrecker.

Police said they confiscated 12 cases of beer and a large quantity of liquor from young people during the night. They patrolled the area until 5:30 a.m. when things quieted down.

Fire rips vacant house at Cassidy

Fires Level Two Houses

Rifle Shots Hit Extension Home

An allegation has been made that an Island man fired rifle shots through the walls of a house filled with sleeping people.

Also burglary, car theft and fraud were charges on the docket as courts in Ladysmith and Nanaimo dealt with cases Monday.

Writing a worthless cheque for $20, March 28, earned Donna Lucella Maxine Paul, 37, of Ladysmith, a 30-day jail term. She pleaded guilty in Ladysmith court.

For a second impaired driving offence John W. West, 31, of Duncan, received a 95-day prison sentence. The offence occurred May 18.

Leonard Keith Hebbel, 20, of Kitimat, spent one day in jail and was given a two-year suspended sentence for stealing two cars.

May 7 he stole a car at Terrace which was found abandoned in the interior of B.C. and the following day he took a car from Quenael which was recovered at Ladysmith.

In Nanaimo John Edward William Bilton, 30, Cedar was remanded to May 23, without bail, without plea. Bilton is charged with a May 11 assault causing bodily harm to Joe Russell, and three separate charges arising from a May 19 incident, in which rifle shots were fired through the walls of a house filled with sleeping people, in the Extension Area.

The three charges are: threatening to cause death of James Martin Thomas (Pridge); possession of an offensive weapon (a rifle); and driving while prohibited. Nell Thompson, 19, Vancouver and a 17-year-old Nanaimo juvenile were both remanded to June 7 for sentence. They pleaded guilty to breaking and entering. The Thompsons admitted to having broken into Kemp's Service Station, May 20.

The juvenile was heard in family court. Court was told they had been apprehended when a resident called the police after hearing glass breaking, and saw two figures crawling through a broken window.

A cigarette machine had been pried open, and a screwdriver and pile of quarters were found.

Also in court, James Martin Pridge, 22, Extension, pleaded guilty to driving without due care and attention, and to driving while disqualified.

He was fined $50 for the first charge and $200 for the second, as well as having Magistrate Eric Winch recommend the superintendent of motor vehicles suspend Pridge's license for six months.

Courtenay Teacher Sees Red Danger

COURTENAY — A communist threat in Borneo is still very real according to a Courtenay teacher.

Stewart Gardner, a teacher at Courtenay Senior Secondary School, was a teacher in Sarawak for two years. He arrived in Sarawak in late 1965.

At a meeting at the Sunnydale Golf Club, he told Courtenay Kiwanis about his experiences. He said headhunting was now officially over.

TEENAGE PROBLEM Mr. Gardner said the problems of teenagers were similar to those in Canada. There was a growing gap between teenagers and adults.

"This seems to be one of the tragedies of the world today," he said.

A large number of young people were going into the jungle to take up arms with bands of Communists.

They were unhappy living with uneducated parents once they had been educated themselves.

Fires burned two Island homes to the ground over the weekend. One home was in the Cowichan Valley, the other near Nanaimo.

A house just outside the Duncan and North Cowichan fire protection areas burned to the ground, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Gertrude McLay, 73, escaped from the burning home uninjured.

Her pet dog Tammy died in the fire despite efforts by Mrs. McLay to fight her way back into the kitchen to save the animal.

She was forced back by the flames which had engulfed the house.

A two-storey frame house, vacant for a year, burned in less than 20 minutes. The house was located on Vowell Road in Cassidy.

North Oyster Fire Department arrived on the scene quickly, but could not save the structure. Cranberry fire department also attended.

In the Cowichan Valley, Mrs. McLay woke up suddenly from her afternoon nap. She heard a fire crackling and smelled smoke.

She ran from the house, yelling for help. But the house went up in flames so quickly none of the neighbors could do anything to save the home or its contents.

The house was located on Polkey Road, just south of Duncan.

Neighbors helped pour water from a hose onto the next-door home of George Quenael and they were successful in keeping the flames from spreading.

The Quenael were away on Salt Spring Island for the weekend.

Mrs. McLay is staying with the Stan Evans family. The fire is believed to have been caused by an electrical fault.

Housing Crisis First on List

NANAIMO — The housing problem in Canada was given a personal twist by the riding's Social Credit candidate, who said he is living in an apartment because he cannot get a house.

Lorne Lee told an audience of 130 at an all-candidate meeting. "We have a situation in national housing which was set up to help people get homes."

"But I can't get one, because I don't make $8,000 a year!" He said he is paying more in monthly rent in his apartment than the total given to Old Age Pensioners.

The housing situation was also discussed by Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock, who said the national housing policy should be overhauled, to make borrowing easier for a greater number of people.

He said the 11 per cent tax on building materials should be removed.

Mr. Brock said housing is a "major concern."

Incumbent Colin Cameron, finance critic for the New Democrats in the House of Commons, stressed his concern about economic domination of Canada, particularly by the United States.

He also attacked an arrangement that will see coal exported to Japan from the west coast, and importing finished steel products from Japan.

"No effort was made to develop a steel industry here," said Mr. Cameron.

Liberal candidate M. L. Zorin said national unity is the major problem facing Canada.

"Unless we realize national unity must be solved, then we are closing our eyes to the problem."

He also said Ottawa "cannot solve all our problems."

The Liberal candidate said "We must prove we can grab a problem, and solve it, with our own strength."

He said the government is preparing a program for those who are just children today.

"Even we, at our age, are too old," he told the audience.

Prospector Missing In Woods

CAMPBELL RIVER — A search resumes today for a prospector lost near Schoen Lake in the Nanaimo Valley.

The man, whose name has not been released, was separated from a companion and became lost.

A helicopter, a rescue team from Osoyoos, police dogs, and two members of the RCMP detachment from Campbell River will participate in today's search.

Crowds Threaten Parade

Floats, bands and marchers had to detour round crowds like this during Nanaimo's Empire Day parade Monday. Massive crowd, including many children, gradually pushed forward until complete traffic lane was full of sightseers. At one point along route, visiting marching group had to carry out its display moves in the middle of wandering viewers.—(Arnold Olson)

Police Control Surf Invasion

Crowds See Tofino Man Win at Long Beach

UCLUELET — Hundreds of fans invaded Long Beach over the weekend for Canadian surfing championships and watched 32-year-old Jimmy Sadler of Tofino capture the senior men's title for the second year.

The water was so cold, ranging between 45 and 50 degrees, that competitors had to wear wet suits.

The surfers rode waves from four to six feet high.

About 30 contestants, mostly from B.C., took part in the contest which was sponsored by West Coast Surfing Association. Two competitors came from Jamaica.

Mr. Sadler was second in his class in 1966. He won the title last year.

"It was simply fantastic," said Mr. Sadler as he discussed the surfing standard.

He and his brother Gil moved from Victoria to Tofino about three years ago to start a contracting business.

Mr. Sadler beat Lee J. Carter, Vancouver, and Brian Slater, Victoria who were placed second and third.

The RCMP had to take special precautions to cope with the big influx of young people.

A roadblock was set up to check minors for liquor.

A police spokesman said that 40 dozen bottles of beer and spirits were confiscated. There were also 13 officers on duty, more being brought in from outside the area to help with patrols.

"This is normal procedure," said the spokesman. "We had the roadblock last year and also brought in more men."

annoyed some campers and there was at least one incident involving damage.

"We drove up" on Saturday and saw a car parked by the roadside while the owner went to get the wheel fixed," said a camper.

"When we came back on Sunday, the windows were smashed, it was kicked in on the side, someone had jumped on the roof and all the wheels were missing."

Hot Coffee He continued: "It was also difficult to sleep. There was quite a bit of car splashing on the sand." Several cars stuck and had to be towed out.

Steady rain during the week-end almost washed out some campers. At one spot on Sunday, where there had been about 250 people, there were only about 15 left later in the day.

The parking lot of the Surfway Store, on the Ucluelet Highway, was crowded with cars as campers waited for the store to open, hoping for shelter. The store owners gave them hot coffee.

It was the third year that he championships had been held at Long Beach.

Trophies Given

There weren't enough entries, this year to enable the organizers to run off the men's open competition.

Other results were: junior men, 19 and over, sponsored by Surfway Store, 1 Dave Murrey, 2 Ed Ahrens, and Dale Gamble, all from Vancouver.

Women's open: 1 Dulce Shepherd, Calgary; 2 Donna Humphries, Victoria; 3 J. Harding, Victoria.

Television Shoots Museum

DUNCAN — One of the tourist gems of Canada, the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum, will make its debut in many homes across the country during a half-hour documentary in a week.

A 12-man crew from CBC Television, Vancouver, visited the beautiful setting of the museum. Producer Al Villos and host Bob Switzer filmed the many different faces of the museum.

One of the show's stars will be Elmer Blackstaff who has become one of the museum's major features.

FILM ACTOR

Enjoying his latest role as film actor, Mr. Blackstaff was at the controls of one of the locomotives, which puffed and steamed through the park across the trestle over part of Somenos Lake.

Mr. Switzer, who also hosts the TV program cuisine, said "we came here to make a survey of the location."

"We always wanted to come here to make a film."

Twenty Students Started School

DUNCAN — A former student remembered how she had enabled Duncan to have its own high school.

She is Mrs. Ethel Fraser who arranged a reunion for the first Duncan high school class. Chairman of the evening, held at Silver Bridge Inn was Stan Dyke of Crofton.

Mrs. Fraser, formerly Ethel West, became the 20th pupil, giving the district its minimum number of students for secondary education facilities.

Mrs. Fraser recalled how her brother, who worked at Stone's Sawmill, asked one of the district teachers how his high school was coming along.

"The teacher told my brother he needed one more student before he could go ahead with the high school," Mrs. Fraser said.

"My brother said he would send me down to attend school in Duncan. So I became the 20th pupil, and Duncan got its high school."

Mrs. Fraser, who was living up-island, went to live with her sister in Duncan.

Who Recalls Zenith?

Mrs. Fraser said the first high school class, or superclass, as it was called then, opened in September 1906-1908.

However, the teacher left in December that year, and although a new teacher arrived, several of the students dropped out. They began their studies again in Sept. 1910.

The first school used for the class was Zenith school which is now used for the district's retarded children.

In Sept. 1911, the class moved into a new school. This was a one-room school located near the present elementary brick school.

This was followed by the building of a two-room school on Cairnmore Street on the same general site. Rev. David Holmes donated the site for the first school.

In 1911, the population of the Duncan area, which was not yet incorporated, was 750 people. Today the school population of the district alone stands at 5,300 students.

Also in that year, a total of 14 students wrote the high school government examinations. The teachers were the late Victor Woodsworth and the late Arnold Thorp.

In 1912, the city of Duncan was incorporated. In the following spring the first class of students graduated from the high school.

Vandals Destroy Jaycee Wreck

COURTENAY — Vandals who wrecked a Junior Chamber of Commerce display have brought an angry statement from Jaycee president Alec Cobban.

"Highway safety is one of the most important jobs we can work on," he said.

"Each year and each holiday weekend many families are touched by the waste of highway death."

In an effort to help Courtenay Junior Chamber of Commerce set up a highway display of a wrecked car with a sign on each side which said Cool It ... He didn't.

BLOW DOWN

It was felt that if even one person was caused to slow down for an instant and think about highway safety that the display has served its purpose.

"Unfortunately some misguided group of individuals felt the display served no useful purpose, or perhaps they felt they need not be reminded of the tragic losses that occur each year on our highways."

At any rate these individuals took it on themselves to destroy the display.

"The car was dumped from the truck it was resting on and the banners were stolen. All this happened after a little more than 12 hours of display."

VERY FOOLISH

"The co-operation of the local business community and the contribution of equipment, time and effort cannot be taken lightly. I hope this unfortunate experience does not deter the club from further efforts in other projects of this nature."

I can only assume this is the work of irresponsible hoodlums and aside from the anger I feel at this action, I feel extremely sorry for them in their misguided expenditure of effort."

RCMP Cpl. John Stevens said the act of vandalism "was a very foolish thing."

Better Concentration, Reduced Failures

High School Will Try Trimester

A university-type trimester system will be pioneered next fall by nearly 1,000 students at Colquitz junior high school.

The school year will be divided into three equal semesters. Colquitz principal Jack Drummond said Saturday.

The Greater Victoria school board is expected to give its blessing this week to the experiment. It has been endorsed by the board's education committee. A trimester system promises three main benefits, said Mr. Drummond.

Hopefully, it will permit closer pupil-teacher relationships, give students a better chance to concentrate on their studies, and reduce failures.

Under the trimester system each semester will run for about 20 months, said the principal. Most courses will be taught during two semesters instead of a whole school year.

Students now take eight courses simultaneously all year. Next fall they will take only six at a time.

"Eight courses is perhaps more than many students can handle," said Mr. Drummond. He said it was hoped that fewer would do better by taking fewer courses in a shorter period of time.

Teachers who now meet eight classes will have only six, and will be able to get to know their students better, he said.

Mr. Drummond hopes failures can be cut by spotting students who get into trouble in a course and starting them over at the end of the first semester.

"Many students who fail a course fall all year long," he said. By making a fresh start, a student can still complete a two-semester course by June. The last time will come out of his elective, said the principal.

He need only re-start the troublesome course, continuing normally in the others he is doing well in.

The trimester system will create time-table problems but the benefits are expected to be worth it, said Mr. Drummond.

Three Projects

Freeze Thaws Slightly

The freeze on school construction is about to thaw a little, Greater Victoria school trustees believe.

The school board is making plans to proceed with three major projects despite the continuing ban on all but "essential" classrooms and the recently-imposed low cost ceilings.

The buildings and grounds committee, in a report going before the board this week says it has "some expectations that the department of education may shortly revise policy to enable building of complete schools."

Peter Burn, chairman of the board, commented Saturday: "There has been a definite softening of attitude recently."

The buildings and grounds committee reported that working drawings for an addition to Reynolds high school would be complete this week.

PLUS LABS

The addition — 10 classrooms plus labs, shops and an expansion of the library — was to have been completed by September so Reynolds could accommodate Grade 11.

The addition will take about nine months to complete. Failure to have it ready this September will mean crowding at Mt. Douglas High.

The school board also plans to call tenders about the end of May on a major addition to Victoria West elementary school, another of the deferred projects.

NEW SCHOOL

Plans for a junior high school at Arbutus and Finlayson, just northeast of the University of Victoria, are being reviewed by the board's architects.

Mr. Burn reported that the board had solved a long-standing sewage disposal problem at the new Shoreline school which opens in View Royal this fall.

The board has signed a $16,000 contract for a sewer link with the main running from Christie Point apartments, he said. The school will have a holding tank and its waste will be pumped into the main at night when its load is least.

Blue-Eyed Secretary New Miss Victoria

Fair Week Draws 111,000

Pam Gillan, a 20-year-old, blue-eyed secretary, Saturday night was chosen Miss Victoria for 1968.

Miss Gillan was chosen from among 10 entrants in the contest which ended during the closing hours of the week-long Jaycee Fair.

Her princesses will be Ellie Pronk, 21, originally from Utrecht, Holland, and Viki Vessey, 18, who was born in Texas.

"It's just wonderful... maybe now my dreams will come true," exclaimed Miss Gillan after she was announced the winner before a crowd of 4,000.

She is a secretary in the vital statistics division of the provincial health department.

The victory brings her more than $300 worth of gifts from local businesses and the honor of representing the city at official functions during the next year.

Winner Levi

By IAN STREET

The upset victory by New Democrat Norman Levi in Tuesday's Vancouver South byelection sets the stage for what Premier Bennett has called a "long, hot summer" on the hustings with three more fierce provincial contests—one in Oak Bay—to be fought in July.

This leaves Social Credit with 32 seats in the 55-member legislature, the NDP has 16 and the Liberals four. There are three vacancies to be filled, one previously held by the NDP and two by Liberals.

Premier Bennett accepted the defeat of Socred George Wainborn in the key Lower Mainland riding philosophically, saying "Well, you can't win them all," but he termed the setback for the government just a temporary one. He predicted when all four B.C. byelections are over the government will have won back the seat it lost Tuesday night, and perhaps also picked up one or two of the other seats, now held by the opposition.

Mr. Levi led the field in Vancouver South from the start and won by a comfortable margin over Mr. Wainborn, with Liberal Sandy Robertson a fairly close third.

The vote on the first complete count was Mr. Levi, NDP, 10,146; Mr. Wainborn, Social Credit, 8,215; Mr. Robertson, Liberal, 7,283; and Republican Leonard Sprackman, 48.

NDP provincial leader Robert Strachan, elated by his party's victory, said the voters of Vancouver South were speaking for the whole province where large numbers of people are "disillusioned and dissatisfied with this crumbling government."

The premier told an election rally here last week his government is fighting for its life," the NDP leader said.

"He (Mr. Bennett) made it quite clear this was a vote of confidence in his government and the people of Vancouver South have told him they are unhappy and unsatisfied with the way things are going."

Mr. Strachan said the issues in the byelection, which he listed as better education, health, housing, pollution control and economic development, apply as well throughout the province.

"They claim we can only put on this type of intensive person-to-person campaign in a byelection," he said. "But we know that in a general election, because of widespread public disillusionment, we can beat the old line Socred political machine with its funds extorted from business."

Mr. Bennett retorted: "One

sparrow doesn't make a summer. He (Mr. Strachan) will revise his estimate before this long, hot summer is over."

The premier added: "But I don't take anything away from Mr. Levi. I congratulate him in what was a personal victory for him rather than a victory for his party."

The Socred and Liberal candidates, Mr. Bennett said, split the free enterprise vote,

France

Censure Drive Failing

PARIS (CP) — France choked in the grip of ever-spreading strikes Tuesday night but leftist deputies opposed to President Charles de Gaulle appeared unable to transform the social ferment into a censure vote that would bring down the government.

Debate on a censure motion began Tuesday with a determined Communist attack on de Gaulle's 10-year "regime of personal power" but quickly bogged down in side issues. Crowds of spectators deserted the galleries.

Even some opposition leaders conceded that the censure motion has little chance of getting more than 230 votes when debate ends late today or early Thursday. A total of 244 votes are needed to oust Premier Georges Pompidou and his cabinet, who carry de Gaulle's policies.

NO STOMACH

It seemed clear that at least some of the 42 centrist deputies of the Democratic and Modern Progress group had no stomach for voting with the Communists.

"We are in favor of change but not an adventure into the unknown," said Jacques Duhamel, the centrist leader.

The polite and often theoretical exchanges in the National Assembly bore scant relation at times to the extremities facing the nation. With major industries and vital public services paralyzed by strikes that have killed nearly half its 16,000,000 workers, France was experiencing its gravest domestic crisis since the Second World War.

FRANCE SICK

The independent newspaper Le Monde says in an editorial that France had again become "the sick man of Europe."

Few doubted that the crisis was a serious setback for de Gaulle's foreign, internal and economic policies.

With unemployment at 2.5 per cent of the labor force even before the strikes and the fifth national plan already slightly behind schedule, some economists said the government's economic policies will need rethinking.

Satisfaction of any substantial part of the demands of the strikers — for higher pay and

Admiral Appointed To B.C. London Post

Rear Admiral Michael Stirling, who retired from the Navy in 1966 because he didn't agree with the unification of Canada's armed forces, will become B.C.'s agent-general in London this fall.

He will take over the $17,500-a-year post Oct. 1 from Earle C. Westwood, former mayor of Nanaimo and B.C. cabinet minister, who is retiring after four years in the U.K.

The announcement was made by Premier Bennett Tuesday afternoon, but he told reporters before entering a cabinet meeting that it was a joint announcement by himself and Trade Minister Waldo Skilling, who was at his side.

STRENUOUS LIFE

Mr. Westwood would be "sorely missed" in London, the premier said, adding, however, that he was pleased that the present agent-general would "now be able to live a less strenuous life after many years of arduous public service."

Mr. Westwood is 58 and his successor, Mr. Stirling, will be 53 next month.

The premier said Mr. Westwood's four-year term as agent-general was successfully devoted to expansion of B.C.'s commercial interests in Britain and Europe. He was made a freeman of the City of London in 1967.

'I AM GRATEFUL'

Mr. Bennett said: "His enthusiasm, integrity and abiding interest in both the welfare of his community and the province have been of great value. I am grateful for what he has done, both personally and on behalf of the people of B.C."

The government came under strong opposition fire during the last session when it boosted the salary for the London post from $13,100 to $17,500 plus expenses. A similar boost affects the San Francisco trade commissioner's job, currently held by Newton P. Steacy, another defeated Socred minister.

Mr. Bennett told the House the salary increases were needed to keep up with the cost of living abroad.

Mr. Westwood was elected Socred M.L.A. for Nanaimo after serving on the city's hospital board, school board and the

Haiti Claims:

Invasion Force Crushed

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — The government of President Francois Duvalier claimed Tuesday night it had smashed a rebel invasion force in a fierce 20-minute battle near the Cap-Haitien airport on the north coast of Haiti.

Government sources said 10 of 35 invaders were killed Tuesday and the survivors fled into nearby hills ahead of pursuing government troops.

The government announced plans to fly two captured B-25 bombers to Port au Prince today. Sources said Duvalier probably would inspect them personally.

The planes were said to have landed the invasion party at Cap-Haitien Monday following a bombing attack on the capital in which one person was reported killed and several injured.

A local newspaper said Duvalier was in bed reading when bombs fell near the palace Monday.

'Confidence in Canada'

Stanfield Lists Six-Point Plan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield Tuesday night put forward a six-point program to restore confidence in basic commodities and economic strength to Canada as he officially opened his campaign here.

He told the 4,500 people crowding the civic auditorium here a government led by him would:

- Restore confidence in such basic industries as agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining and manufacturing so that new growth could take place.

- Gain increased markets for Canadian grain, paper, fish and manufactured markets.

- Strengthen regional and national economies through better marketing, storage, distribution and transportation facilities.

- Give particular attention to new technologies in developing communication systems such as hovercraft routes and commodity pipelines.

- Develop a national power grid so that large blocks of surplus power could be transferred from one region to another or to the United States.

- Improve educational and technological capacity.

CONFIDENCE KEY

"Then, what are we waiting for? Let us justify their confidence in Canada."

"Let confidence in Canada be the purpose of our campaign, and the spirit of our campaign, and the result of our campaign," he said.

SHOW-STEALER

But the show-stealer here was Marcel Faribault, self-described Conservative leader in Quebec. Faribault, former advisor to Premier Johnson of Quebec, was greeted by some hostility in the crowd of 4,500 which filled the auditorium. But he overrode it and had many cheering him.

Douglas Pledges

National Control Over Pollution

SUDBURY (CP) — A New Democratic Party government would set up a national pollution control agency involving all levels of government, NDP leader T. C. Douglas said Tuesday night.

The agency, along with provincial counterparts, would have power to police all aspects of pollution, set standards for control and, if necessary, provide grants. An NDP government would seek concurrent legislation from the provinces for the joint approach.

Douglas outlined his party's program on pollution at a joint rally of the Sudbury and Nickel Belt riding associations.

The NDP leader said about 4,000 square miles in the Sudbury area are polluted by sulphur dioxide caused by operations of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. About 200 square miles are in danger of becoming a desert.

Yet the "fouling continues unabated and the governments do virtually nothing."

The responsibility for control of pollution rests with the federal government, Douglas said. Provinces share in the constitutional jurisdiction, "but sheer necessity dictates

School Strike Ends

By JEAN MacGREGOR

DUNCAN — Striking clerks won their week-old battle Tuesday when Cowichan school board surrendered to their demands and accepted a conciliation board pay award. All schools will reopen today.

Board chairman Joseph Frumento said trustee Bruce Devitt, salary committee chairman, asked the union to accept a compromise but the union representatives "insisted on the conciliation board award."

The strike by 28 board-employed office workers ended when a joint agreement was signed at a special meeting by the trustees' salary committee and representatives of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The agreement was ratified by the board later. The clerks will receive a 13.5 per cent wage increase.

Another joint meeting will be held today when a collective agreement will be signed.

'Two Peoples One Country'

The Progressive-Conservative party stands for "one country, one Canada with a federal system of government, one country of 'two founding peoples,' who have been joined by Canadians of other cultures," leader Robert Stanfield said Tuesday.

He was replying to a telegram sent last week by Cologist publisher Richard J. Bower which said it is "imperative you clarify stand on two-nation policy and explain what special status for Quebec would entail."
